PLAN CURFEW IN LEGISLATURE TO STOP CHILDREN'S SCHOOL STRIKE

EXPLAINS COLEMAN VACATION

George W. Coleman, who wrecked the National City Bank of Cambridge, again took the stand today at the hearing before Master Robert O. Harris to see if the directors of the bank can be held financially liable for the money stolen by Coleman. The suit was brought by John L. Bates, receiver of the bank. The hearing is being held behind LOCKED DOORS at the request of the directors of the bank. Mr. Bates and the master, former Congressman Harris, are both in favor of an open hearing.

Until Judge Aldrich of the United States Circuit Court, who appointed Harris as master to hear the evidence, makes a ruling on the protest by the AMERICAN against the star chamber hearing the doors will remain locked at the request of the director.

Deny Joy Trips by Coleman.

Coleman today came to the Suffolk County Courthouse, where the hearing is being held, in the custody of Deputy United States Marshal J. A. Tighe. Marshal Tighe denied the story in a morning newspaper that Coleman was enjoying a happy "vacation" as a man about town during his present visit to Boston. Marshal Tighe said:

"Coleman is in custody night and day. I never leave him except when relieved for a few hours by another deputy marshal. I am responsible to the government for his safety.

"Every morning I have brought Coleman to the United States marshal's office at the Federal Building, and then taken him to the court house. After his day in court I have, with the permission of Receiver Bates, taken Coleman for a long walk for exercise. I have then taken him to my own home on three nights, where he spent the night. The other nights I took him to the East Cambridge jail, where he was locked up. I took Coleman to his home in Cambridge several times, so that Coleman could look for books and check stubs needed in his testimony.

"I have taken Coleman to a Newspaper Row restaurant for his meals. We have not been to any downtown hotels or to the theatres since I brought him to Boston."

Coleman Is Indignant.

FOUR DROWNED AS PORTLAND BARGE SINKS

PORTLAND, Me., May 9.—Four men were drowned and two rescued when a lighter carrying 500 tons of coal suddenly turned turtle off the Portland end of Great Chebeague Island at 7:30 a. m. today.

The dead:

PATRICK H. MALIA, aged fifty, leaves widow and four children.

JOHN CONNOLLY, aged fifty-three, leaves widow and six children.

CARROLL PETERSON, age twenty-six, leaves widow and three children.

FESTUS McDONOUGH, age forty, widower, three children.

The rescued:

JOHN MEEHAN, age forty-five, engineer of lighter.

JOSEPH McDONOUGH, longshoreman, age thirty-five.

The four drowned men were employed as longshoremen by Randall & McAllister, coal dealers. All the men belonged in Portland. The two men rescued were saved by the crew of the tug Portland.

POPE GIVES FIRST OFFICIAL AUDIENCE SINCE HIS ILLNESS

ROME, May 9.—Pope Pius X. today gave his first official audience since his recent illness, receiving the apostolic mission which attended the Eucharistic congress at Malta. Several days ago the Pope received several cardinals and the Vicar General of Rome in audience, but the meeting was informal and very short.

The members of the mission today congratulated the Pontiff upon his recovery and in turn received the papal blessing. The Pope asked a number of questions about the congress. The Pontiff is still very thin.

KILLS WOMAN AND ENDS OWN LIFE

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.—Following a quarrel over money, John Ames, formerly a sergeant in the United States Marine Corps, today shot and killed his sweetheart, Mrs. Alice Granville, shot her ten-year-old son and then sent a bullet through his own chest. Both Ames and the boy are in a dying condition at St. Agnes Hospital.

VACCINE CURE IS DOUBTED

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The United States government today officially declared that "the effects thus far observed do not justify that confidence in Dr. Friedmann's remedy which have been inspired by widespread publicity."

This is the crux of the long awaited statement from the Board of Examiners of the Public Health Service, delivered by Dr. John F. Anderson before the convention of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis in this city.

Dr. Friedmann is specifically accused of having broken his promise to afford investigators of the United States full opportunity to study his work.

Dr. Anderson is the surgeon who, with Dr. A. M. Stimson, was assigned by Surgeon-General Blue to meet Dr. Friedmann and to study his work. Dr. Stimson also signs the formal report.

"Harm May Have Been Done."

The report says in part:

At the present time we are not in position to express an opinion upon the present cases, under observation. The disease for which the remedy is used is prolonged, and is marked by periods of improvement and retrogression.

We must not lose sight of the possible therapeutic value of this preparation, but it is necessary to guard against too great an optimism in respect to its merits. However, without going into details as to the condition of the patients now under observation, we are in a position to state that the facts thus far observed do not justify the confidence in the remedy that has been inspired by widespread publicity.

In our opinion harm may have been done by this undue publicity because it has lessened the confidence of tuberculous persons in well recognized methods of treatment, or interrupted their use.

The Bacillus Described.

In our series of experiments Dr. Friedmann has made almost exclusive use of the intramuscular method, and a very considerable portion of them have developed either no considerable infiltrate at all or have suffered from abscess formations. It is very evident, therefore, that a considerable number of Dr. Friedmann's patients may expect their treatment at the hands of Dr. Friedmann to cover a long period.

Concerning the cultures submitted to us, we may state that a series of experiments are under way.

The bacillus has been found to be an acid-fast, organism, having properties quite different from those of any tubercle bacillus with which we have been acquainted. It appears to be identical with an organism cultivated from a few loopfulls of the material used for injection which Dr. Friedmann permitted us to place on culture in his presence.

We requested Dr. Friedmann to furnish us with a large quantity of this material for examination, but this he refused to do.

We can state that living acid fact bacteria are being injected by the muscular and interavenous methods, although we are ignorant of what medium they are suspended in, or what additional substance or substances may be contained in the final mixture.

Denounced by Committee.

Following this vigorous attack on the Friedmann "claims" the anti-tuberculosis association took up discussion of resolutions drawn up by a committee of the association which also denounce Dr. Friedmann. These resolutions, it was declared, were certain to be adopted.

Dr. Friedmann was also characterized today by Dr. J. M. Hury, former president of the American Public Health Association and secretary of the Indiana State Board of Health, as "The Dr. Cook of Medicine." Today was the open season for Dr. Friedmann.

VINCENT ASTOR TO ESCAPE OPERATION

NEW YORK, May 9.—Vincent Astor will not be operated upon today for chronic bronchial trouble according to his physician. Dr. McKernon finds one unnecessary at present.

Foss in Message Urges Board to Study Drink Evil

Governor Foss today sent a special message on drunkenness to the Legislature.

He termed the present laws unsatisfactory and inadequate to cope with the problem.

He recommends the establishment of boards of inebriety throughout the State to study, correct and control the drink evil and advocates also the appointment of a commission of five, augmented by the Governor and Council, to inquire into drunkenness and to frame legislation to diminish drunkenness.

Evelyn Thaw to Return to Stage at $5,000 a Week

SOUTHAMPTON, England, May 9.—Mrs. Evelyn Thaw, who has arrived here with her son, says she is going to return to the stage at once. She has signed contracts to appear in music halls here at $5,000 a week, and will be seen in vaudeville in the United States later.

"Yes, I am going back to the stage," said Mrs. Thaw. "I must live, and I think that I will be able to make a success. Marinelli, the booking agent, has signed me up for a music hall engagement in London at $5,000 a week, and later I will be seen in America. I have got to live somehow."

"TOO EARLY," SAYS WALSH, IN NEW YORK, ON 1914

NEW YORK, May 9.—Lieutenant-Governor David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, who is stopping at the Hotel Astor here, today intimated that he might be a candidate for the governorship next Fall.

"My friends have asked me to run," Walsh said, answering a direct question as to whether he would be a candidate, "but it is a little too early just now to make any definite statement. I am on my way to Atlantic City, where I'll take a short vacation, and when I get back to Boston I'll think the matter over very carefully."

$60,015,989 OF NEW ENGLAND SAVINGS

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Total savings deposits shown by recent call of the comptroller in national banks were $810,975,367, deposited in 7,440 banks. Deposits in New England were $60,015,989, in Middle States $368,134,323, in Southern States $105,822,443, in Middle Western States $205,122,219, in other Western States $21,602,568, in Pacific States $50,655,358, and in Hawaii $222,465. In Pennsylvania the deposits were $197,605,781, or more than double those of any other State.

PATERSON JURY GETS I. W. W. CASE

PATERSON, N. J., May 9.—The defence of Patrick Quinlan, one of the five indicted Industrial Workers of the World strike leaders, charged with inciting riot by inflammatory speeches, ended today after Quinlan's lawyer had made an impassioned address to the jury in which he charged that the whole case was a "frame-up." The State's attorney then began summing up for the prosecution and it was expected that there would be a verdict before midnight.

ARMY AVIATOR KILLED IN FLIGHT

LOS ANGELES, May 9.—First Lieutenant Joseph D. Park, Fourteenth Cavalry, a United States Army aviator, was killed today when his machine fell to earth at Santa Anna. He had attempted a flight from San Diego to Los Angeles to demonstrate the feasibility of the aeroplane for scouting purposes in time of war. Lieutenant Park comes from Massachusetts and is a member of a famous army family.

JOHNSON WINS FIRST LAW POINT

CHICAGO, May 9.—Jack Johnson, negro pugilist, won the first important point in his case today when Judge Carpenter, hearing the negro's trial for violation of the white slave act, ruled that Belle Schrieber could not tell of alleged cruelties on the part of the black.

S. W. V. TO AID FUND FOR MAINE

The National Council of the National Commandery of Naval and Military Order of the Spanish War voted at its session in the Parker House today to recommend that every State commandery throughout the country be requested to take an active part in raising the $40,000 fund necessary to complete the Maine Monument Fund.

Captain William B. Edgar of Fall River, the commander-in-chief, explained that the commandery would have to raise but $20,000, as William Randolph Hearst had promised to contribute a dollar for every dollar raised.

New Gates to Cost $40,000.

This action came at a special meeting of the National Council before the opening of the three days' session at the Armory of the First Corps Cadets at 3 o'clock.

The Maine monument as planned by the Maine Monument Committee, consisting of General James Grant Wilson (chairman), John W. Kelley and William Randolph Hearst, originally cost $143,000.

The Municipal Art Commission of the city of New York recently decreed that an addition should be made in the shape of decorative gates. The cost of these was established at $40,000.

The Maine Monument Committee sent out an appeal to the public for subscriptions to make up this amount. Then it was that Mr. Hearst came forward and offered to match every dollar raised by popular subscription.

The Maine Monument is to be dedicated May 30. At its dedication the entire North Atlantic squadron will serve as an escort to President Wilson, who with the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy is expected to be present.

Headquarters at Parker House.

The Massachusetts Commandery has established headquarters at the Parker House for the entertainment of the visiting officers. Among those who called at headquarters today were the representatives of the District of Columbia, General Alfred C. Girard, U. S. A. (retired), and Major Robert Lee Longstreet.

The most picturesque of the visiting officers perhaps is Colonel Felix Rosenberg, a member of the general inspector's staff of the Ohio National Guard. Colonel Rosenberg was born in North Carolina and is a Civil War as well as a Spanish-American War veteran.

He enlisted in the Confederate army at seventeen years of age and worked himself up until at the close of the war he had won the rank of lieutenant-colonel.

During the war he was captured and held as a prisoner of war at Fort Warren in Boston Harbor. Colonel Rosenberg is going to visit Fort Warren during his stay here to renew his memories of the days when he was a prisoner of the Union forces.

At the close of the war Colonel Rosenberg enlisted as a private in the regular army and again rose through merit to the rank of a commissioned officer. At the outbreak of the Spanish-American War Colonel Rosenberg enlisted again as a commissioned officer in the regular army.

The convention proper opened at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

MODEL READY TO PRESS CHARGE

Miss Bertha Coombs, the pretty eighteen-year-old Boston model, who is known to artists all over the country as the "girl with the Titian hair," was in the Municipal Court today ready to press her charges of assault and battery against William Warner, twenty-five, whom she accuses of attacking her in a taxicab. Warner was also in court. The case was continued until next Monday and Warner was held in $200 bonds.

MOTORMAN GIVEN $100,000, KEEPS JOB

NEW YORK, May 9.—Edward A. Ostrander, a subway motorman, after learning he was one of nine heirs to a $1,000,000 estate, remained on duty, seemingly without a care.

HELEN MAY GOODRICH, who, unable to pay $10 debt because of small wages, committed suicide.

GIRL SUICIDE URGED DOCTORS TO LET HER DIE

Helen May Goodrich, the seventeen-year-old girl who committed suicide in South Framingham because she said the $5 per week she earned could not properly nourish her, pleaded with the doctors to let her die when they tried to save her.

"Have courage and we'll pull you through," said one of the physicians at the hospital where efforts were made to check the effects of the poison.

"But I don't want to live," said the girl. "I have nothing to conceal. I just want to die. The world is full of ills and trouble. Life is a struggle. Please let me die, won't you?"

A few hours later Helen was dead. They buried her today beside her father in the little cemetery at Upton. The funeral service was held at the home of her brother, Albert Goodrich on George street. Girl friends from the Dennison Manufacturing Company, where Helen was employed, came and brought flowers.

Her mother, Mrs. Della Goodrich, hurried from her home in Philadelphia with Helen's little brother Philip to attend the funeral.

One of the highest officials in the Dennison Manufacturing Company today denied the report that Miss Goodrich was driven to suicide by low wages and starvation.

TO CRUSH REVOLT BY CHILDREN

A legislative investigation into the strike among the public school children of Greater Boston for shorter hours is ordered in a measure introduced into the House of Representatives today by Representative John J. Murphy of South Boston. The order will come up for consideration on Monday.

In connection with the "strike" investigation the legislative committee is asked to consider the advisability of a State-wide curfew law as a corrective measure for all children under sixteen years old.

Representative Murphy's order reads as follows:

> Ordered, that the Joint Committee on Rules take under advisement the present situation of unrest and strike of the school children of Boston, Cambridge, Brookline and vicinity, with a view to determine all the contributory causes.
>
> The committee shall pay especial attention to the present juvenile delinquent law and its effects.
>
> The committee shall consider the advisability of a curfew statute as a possible corrective measure for children under the age of sixteen years. The committee shall report its findings with recommendations to the Legislature as soon as expedient.

Home Discipline Urged.

Some legislators were disinclined to accept the question of a State investigation of the school strike seriously. There was quite a group of them at the State House and their spokesman was Senator James H. Brennan of the Charlestown district. He said:

"The only way to put a stop to this school strike is for the fond papas to administer a good old fashioned 'licking' to their unruly children who are causing this disturbance in the public schools."

While the South Boston representative's order was being placed before the Legislature today a report was current that a general strike of all children in the Boston schools would begin Monday. "The report is ridiculous," said G. S. Burgess, secretary to Superintendent of Schools Dyer. "Everything is absolutely

SCUTARI THREATENED BY FIRE.

VIENNA, May 9.—Scutari, the Albanian city, whose ownership nearly brought Europe to war, was threatened with destruction by fire today. A telegram from Cettinje stated that flames broke out in the main bazaar, and owing to absence of water and fire fighting appliances spread rapidly. A troop of Montenegrin soldiers finally extinguished the fire.

OLD CITY EMPLOYE DIES SUDDENLY.

John Crosby, fifty-five, for many years an employe of the Paving division, collapsed at the corner of East Canton street and Harrison avenue, shortly after eating his dinner, today. He died upon his arrival at the City Hospital. His body was taken to the City Hospital morgue.

normal today," he continued. "We have reports from all the schools and the attendance has never been so good this year as it is today. Not a single school window has been broken. Mr. Dyer after looking over the reports from the various schools today found conditions so nearly normal that he decided not to give the strike situation any more of his attention today. Consequently, he went to the Mechanics Art High School on another matter."

Spread to Malden.

The school strike spread to Malden today, when thirty-five pupils of the Emerson school on Highland avenue, after parading, singing and shouting, refused to attend school.

The boy leaders adopted the reversed style of wearing their caps and the girls wore paper banners on their hats to show their sympathy with the strike.

Mrs. Cora H. Dempsey, the principal, sent notes to each child's parents. Patrolmen Muldoon and Curley and Truant Officer Howe began a round-up of the strikers.

The arrival of the notes at the pupils' homes started parents on a hunt for old slippers, shaving strops and other disciplinary tools. When the cries from various woodsheds had subsided the striking pupils were seen singly and in knots of two and three starting early to be in place at the opening of the afternoon session.

A "strike" at the Bunker Hill Grammar School, corner of Bunker Hill and Baldwin streets, Charlestown, was short lived. About fifty scholars "went out," but with the co-operation of the children's fathers Principal F. L. Keith brought them back to their studies. Before the leaders were allowed to resume their seats in the schoolroom they were given a "licking" that they won't forget.

While this legislative inquiry was being planned the Boston police today took determined action to put an immediate end to the strike. Policemen were detailed to guard every school where the pupils have broke out into open revolt. This step by the police, together with the hearty response of parents to the call for the use of the old fashioned spanking remedy for rebelliousness in their children, was regarded by the school authorities as certain to stamp out the last traces of the strike.

Little trouble was expected today by the authorities. The presence of policemen at the schools in the affected districts had a deterrent effect on the youngsters, and most of them walked meekly into the schools or yards when the doors and gates were opened.

Special attention was given today to the situation in Roxbury, where Annie Stewart, twelve, came to grief.

Girl Striker Militant.

A policeman found her near Madison Park, and after he failed to impress upon her that she should go home, he sent her to the station house. She said, "If the boys are striking then I want to strike. I want equal rights."

Captain Hanley sent for the mothers of the girl and the two boys who had also been detained, and after he gave the trio a lecture allowed them to go with their parents.

Every effort is being made to prevent the boys and girls in Roxbury from repeating yesterday's acts, when 500 hooted, paraded and threw stones until chased away by the police. Little trouble is expected in Jamaica Plain and East Boston.

The Charlestown boys at the Harvard School have united as "Loyalists."

Says Pastor Beat Her; Mrs. M'Callum Sues for Divorce

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 9.—A suit for divorce filed by Mrs. Bertha MacCallum, wife of the Rev. J. Wesley MacCallum, wife of the Rev. J. Wesley pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, alleging cruelty, will be heard at the May session of the Superior Court. Mrs. MacCallum alleges that he husband struck her many times. On one occasion she declares he rained blows upon her, felling her to the floor where she lay almost unconscious.

CAMBRIDGE BANK DIRECTORS SPLIT ON PUBLICITY QUESTION

Tighe, said today: "It is rot to talk this way. I have not been inside of a theatre for a good deal more than three yers, and it has been that same length of time since I slept in my home. I have been taken to my home, in compliance with the request of Mr. Nay that I endeavor to find certain papers, documents and check stubs that the receiver wanted, and I got them. It was impossible for anyone else to get them, as I alone knew where to find them."

"And I was with him, myself," interjected Deputy Tighe, "and watched him ransack drawers and closets."

Coleman continued: "In the Gridley restaurant and on the street I frequently saw friends and acquaintances, and pointed them out to the deputy, and he would give me permission to nod, but not to speak to them. When they wanted to talk with me, they were given the chance by Marshal Murchie, in his office, at such times as I was not testifying."

Coleman has had an easy, comfortable life at Greenfield. He works on the farm, goes about the town and countryside, delivering milk for the jail, and he goes and comes as he pleases. At night he is locked up.

The AMERICAN'S demand for a public hearing of the suit of Receiver John L. Bates against the directors of the National City Bank of Cambridge to recover in part for the $300,000 stolen from the bank, principally by George W. Coleman, is indorsed by some of the directors.

There is dissension among them. Certain directors feel it was a big mistake for their colleagues to insist upon the star chamber policy. They say the secrecy has started ugly rumors and given rise to false impressions. They say the private hearings have tended to cast a reflection upon the entire directorate of the wrecked bank and declare the doors should be thrown open from this on.

One director, who did not wish to have his name used, said today:

Impression Is Bad.

It was absurd for any of the defendants to insist on privacy. It has given the public a false notion. The report that Coleman was not the only one who stole from the bank has been decidedly odious. But what chance is there to explain?

The advocates of secrecy have brought it upon themselves. It isn't right. It is against the law and the practice of Massachusetts. The ground of the AMERICAN'S editorial, that no special privileges should be given the directors who have pleaded for privacy, is well taken.

Of what good would our court system be if this policy were to be adopted to any extent? If it is something that the Federal court has the right to order, then I say it is high time for Congress to remedy the evil by passing an act forbidding all secret hearings, unless those that would offend public morals and decency. In no other type of case, say I, should the public be ousted, be the action in the State or Federal court.

Expect Judge Aldrich to Act.

Judge Aldrich, who has been appealed to on behalf of the stockholders to order that the balance of the hearing be made public, returns to Boston soon. He is expected to take some action in the matter.

The stockholders who lost their money are clamoring for publicity. They want to know why the directors permitted such wholesale looting of the funds.

Former Judge Harris, who is acting as master, ordered that the hearings be secret, at the request of Attorney Robert M. Morse, acting as counsel for certain directors who are held by Receiver Bates to be responsible for the thefts.

Coleman, who was brought from the Greenfield Jail, where he is serving a fifteen-year term, will conclude his testimony as star witness for Receiver Bates. Coleman acquiesced in the AMERICAN'S claim that the public should be told who took the $117,000 that has not been accounted for.

It was during a recess. He left the witness stand and stepped into the corridor.

"Let's see that AMERICAN," said he to his guard. The first thing that met his glance on the first page was the headline, "Publicity Will Show Who Got $117,000."

"That's the question," said Coleman with a smile. "Let's have just what the AMERICAN asks, 'Who got that other $117,000?'"

He was absorbed in the report of the star chamber inquisition when he was told that the proceedings were to be resumed.

This is the closing day of the hearing, so far as the receiver's side of the case is concerned. Before the defence gets under way adjournment will be taken this afternoon until some date late in June, to enable counsel to attend to other matters. This hearing has been under way since a year ago last January, with long interruptions, owing to Master Harris' duties in Congress.

What Became of It?

Although the public has been given to understand that Coleman stole $300,000 from the National City Bank, the books show that he took $183,000 only, which is all that he would ever admit.

He insists that he doesn't know anything about the fate of the remaining $117,000. What the stockholders and the general public want to know is what became of the $117,000.

In the corridor, during the hearing, Master Harris had an AMERICAN in his pocket. The deputy marshal who is guarding Coleman had another copy, and Attorney Newman came out to borrow it. He commented on the headline and, turning to the last page, said:

"Well, the AMERICAN has another editorial today under the title, 'The Inauguration of Secret Trials Would Be the Beginning of an Orgy of Injustice.'"

Mr. Newman took the paper and went inside. He could be seen passing the newspaper to Attorney Robert M. Morse, of counsel for the defendants. Then Attorney Nay and others read it, and when Receiver Bates arrived later he was shown its front page headline and the editorial on the last page.

For the past ten days Coleman has been a temporary tenant at the East Cambridge Jail, not far from the section of Cambridge where he was born. He has been visited there and at the office of the United States marshal at the Federal building by his mother.

Coleman's Daily Life.

Coleman looks better than he ever did in his life. His shoulders and arms have been developed by manual labor in the open and he has a fine coat of tan. His eyes have the glitter of health and regular living. He is no longer the fat, pale-faced boy the faro operators found so "easy."

It was learned today that he has developed into quite a farmer. He arises every morning at 5:30 at the Greenfield Jail, and has been given charge of the cattle barn, where nine cows are kept.

After bringing in the milk and feeding the cows he has breakfast, and then he attends to the jail bookkeeping, and afterward goes into the fields to work.

Coleman has changed so much that old friends have passed him in the street during the noon hour, not, as he expressed it, "because they don't want to see me, but they they don't know me with this coat of tan and small belt line."

Federal Report Points to Rise in Price of Food

WASHINGTON, May 9.—A bulletin issued by the Department of Agriculture today indicated an increase in the cost of staple foods. On April 15 prices of meat animals were 16.7 per cent. higher than a year ago, 26.6 per cent. higher than two years ago and 5.1 per cent. higher than three years ago.

Corn brought 56 cents on May 1, this year, and 53 cents in 1912; wheat, 80.9 cents in 1913 and 79.1 cents in 1912; butter, 27 cents in 1913; 27.6 cents in 1912; eggs, 16.1 cents in 1913, 16.4 in 1912. Hogs brought $7.93 a hundred on May 1 last, and $7.62 on May 1, 1912. Beef cattle, $6.08 in 1913, $5.88 in 1912; calves, $7.39 in 1913, $7.49 in 1912; lambs $6.59 in 1913, 6.55 in 1912.

UNKNOWN MAN FOUND IN BROOK

The body of an unidentified man was found in Stony Brook, near Washington street, Forest Hills, today. The police said there were no marks on the body which would indicate violence. The body was found by Mark D. Sullivan of Somerville, who was working near the brook. The body was that of a man about thirty-five years old, five feet ten inches in height, weighing 145 pounds, with dark complexion, dark hair, black stubby moustache, black suit, white shirt and turned-down collar, black tie with a lavender stripe, and black lace shoes and stockings.

HOUSE PLANS TO REPRIMAND GLOVER FOR CONTEMPT

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The House today began debate on a resolution citing for contempt Charles C. Glover, a Washington banker, because of his attack thre weeks ago on Representative Sims of Tennessee. Five hours' debate on the resolution was arranged, after which Chairman Davis of the committee which found Glover guilty of contempt will move move that the banker be arrested and brought before the bar of the House for punishment. It is expected this punishment will be a reprimand.

SETTLEMENT IN ALIENATION SUIT

Two suits brought by William H. Holden, a barber of Holliston, against Chester R. Gilmore, a marketman of the same town, were today settled out of court. Holden sued Gilmore for $5,000 for alleged alienation of the affections of his wife, Florence A. Holden, and $2,000 for assault and battery. The terms of settlement were not made public.

MUTINY AMONG TURKISH TROOPS

TONSILITIS IN CANTON KILLS NINE; 400 ILL

An epidemic of tonsilitis has resulted in the deaths of nine persons in Canton in the last two weeks. Four hundred of the 3,000 residents are ill. A number were in a critical condition today.

All schools and public buildings have been closed and business is practically at a standstill.

Physicians are as yet unable to determine the cause of the epidemic. Members of the State Board of Health, who have made an investigation, discredit reports that milk from a farm near Canton contained germs and was responsible for the disease.

Twelve persons were taken suddenly ill after attending a party on March 27 and doctors who attended them said they were suffering from tonsilitis. Since then 400 cases have been reported. One physician was treating more than 100 patients today.

OPERATIC CONCERT IN 4 LANGUAGES

An operatic concert of unusual interest was given in Jordan Hall this afternoon, the vocal selections being in French, Italian, Russian and Spanish. Rodolfo Fornari of the Boston Opera Company, M. Onluchanoff, the Russian singer, and Raoul Romito were the vocal soloists. The instrumentalists were Kalova Ondrieck, the violinist, and Homer Humphrey, the organist.

BRYAN SETS NEW ECONOMY RECORD

WASHINGTON, May 9.—An economy record in official Cabinet expense accounts has been made by Secretary of State Bryan. He turned in an account of but $187 for Pullman fares, hotel accommodations and incidental expenses incurred upon his recent trip to California by himself and his private secretary, Robert Rose. Railroad mileage was not included.

LINDA ARNOLD, Providence girl, who will marry the Marquis Max Strozzi of Italy, on June 18.

Hunt Writer of Threats Against Hildur Eckstrom

WORCESTER, May 9.—Police inspectors are guarding night and day the home of the Rev. John A. Eckstrom, pastor of the Gethsemane Swedish Lutheran Church, as a result of threats made against the clergyman's daughter, Hildur, seven years old.

The girl has never been out of the sight of her parents since a mysterious foreigner left two notes at the parsonage occupied by the Eckstroms at No. 55 Laurel street.

The police have searched the foreign quarters in the hope of locating a youth answering the description given them of the person who delivered the first of the threatening letters to Miss Edith Paulson, who lives with the clergyman's family.

Chief of Police Hill believes the letters were written by an enemy of the pastor or his family. The Rev. Mr. Eckstrom declares that he has no enemy.

NEW STYLES LED TO ARSON TRUST

CHICAGO, May 9.—Change in styles which rendered worthless thousands of dollars' worth of stock in women's clothes was one of the factors that fostered the arson trust, according to Assistant State's Attorney Frank Johnson. Dealers finding themselves stocked with clothing that could not be sold when women decided to wear tight skirts called the torchmen in to help, Johnson asserted.

LADY CONNAUGHT'S CASE HOPELESS

LONDON, May 9.—It was learned today from an official source that the condition of the Duchess of Connaught, wife of the Governor-General of Canada, who was twice operated upon for intestinal obstruction, is hopeless. She has not been able to take nourishment for six days.

CHANGE CARS TO MEET NEW STYLE

MUNCIE, Ind., May 9.—New styles in skirts have been followed here by new styles in street cars. Because tight skirts make it impossible for women to step on the cars, the traction company has ordered the steps lowered.

THOUGHT BROCKTON WIFE TOO PRETTY

BROCKTON, May 9.—Lillian L. Berocher of Whitman, granted a divorce from Frank G. Berocher, testified that her husband thought she was too attractive, and would not allow her to buy her own clothes because he thought she would dress too becomingly.

MAINE FARMER KILLED BY FALL

BELFAST, Me., May 9.—Thrown to the floor by a breaking beam in his barn, John Mahoney, aged seventy-three, and a prominent farmer of Lincolnville, is dead with a broken neck.

Providence Girl to Marry Marquis Strozzi, June 18

PROVIDENCE, May 9.—The marriage of Miss Linda Arnold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olney Arnold, to the Marquis Max Strozzi, son of Marquis Pio and Marchioness Rita Strozzi, will take place at St. Joseph's Church, Hope street, June 18.

The bride and bridegroom will sail for Italy on the day following and will spend the Summer at Palazzo Strozzi, the villa of the bridegroom's parents.

Mr. Arnold is a prominent Democrat. He was the nominee for Governor three years ago and prior to that served in the General Assembly.

BIG MACKEREL CATCH BY TEN GLOUCESTER BOATS

GLOUCESTER, May 9.—Prospects for the best mackerel season for the past six years for the Gloucester fishing fleet opened today with the arrival in New York of ten Gloucester schooners with fares totalling 20,000 fish. These fish will bring the Cape Ann fishermen 28 cents apiece.

The schooners reaching New York today and the amount of their cargoes follow: Rob Roy 4,000, Constellation 5,000, Ralph L. Hall 6,500, Lear C. 500, Hockomock 2,800, Julietta 90, Lafayette 1,200, Golden Eagle 1,000, N. A. Rowe 500, Theresa 300.

IN BROMFIELD TOMB.

The bodies of five members of the Bromfield family removed from the family vault under the Cathedral Church of St. Paul, where they were many years, are now in the Bromfield tomb in Kings Chapel Burial Ground.

Unknown Hero Brings Runaway Horses to Stop

Hundreds of men, women and children on Summer, Federal and Bedford streets were endangered during the noon hour today by a runaway team that dashed out of Federal street. The horses were attached to a big fish and delivery wagon of Collins & Lee, Chelsea, and were driverless.

Men yelled and women who were crossing the streets at the time were pulled out of danger. An unknown hero made a grab for the bridle of one of the horses on Summer street, near Federal, and held on bringing the horses to a stop on Bedford street, near the Regal Shoe store.

He locked the wheels with a chain, brushed the mud from his trousers, remarked: "Gee, that was a narrow escape," and was lost in the crowd.

MRS. STOKES IN FORD HALL TALK ON "SOCIALISM"

Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes of New York city will speak upon "Socialism" in Ford Hall, Sunday, May 18, at 8 p. m., under the auspices of the Unitarian Fellowship for Social Justice. This will be one of the opening services of the eighty-eighth anniversary of the American Unitarian Association which will be held in this city May 19-25.

Other speakers will be Miss Inez Mulholland on "Woman Suffrage," and H. Martin Williams, one of the clerks of the House of Representatives, Washington, on "The Single Tax."

LIMIT WOMAN'S WORK.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The Senate District Committee today ordered a favorable report on the Lafollette bill fixing eight hours a day as the maximum labor limit for women and girls in the District of Columbia. The measure failed of passage last Congress.

SUES BROKER FOR SON'S $3,707 LOSS

Mrs. Bessie Dugan of Salem alleges her son, Edward, used $3,707.25 of her money in stock transactions with James R. Williston & Co. of New York, without her consent and that he lost the money. She now seeks to recover the money from the stock brokers and has filed a bill in the Suffolk Superior Court. She alleges that no actual purchases or sales were made.

E. M. ALDEN DEAD.

BRIDGEWATER, May 9.—Edward M. Alden, fifty-one, a direct descendant of John Alden, is dead.

A Want Ad. often leads to fortune.

COUNT CASSINI DIES,

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Diplomatic circles expressed regret today at the death in St. Petersburg of Count Cassini, former Russian Ambassador to the United States.

Today, I'm ready again for the Man who wants a Plain GRAY Suit at

The heavy demand this season for Georges model plain gray suits at $15 has greatly shortened my stock of them during the past few weeks. All my stores have, however, just received a fresh allotment, which went into stock last night, for today's and tomorrow's selling.

Included are grays of every depth, from light Cambridge shades to the duskiest Oxfords, and in fabrics of all kinds. The new gray velours are extremely popular, because they embody all the soft beauty of flannel with far better shape-retaining qualities. The models represent the last style thoughts—Georges model clothes being always products of the designing genius of the cleverest custom fashion creators. As for value—it is my boast this season that I'm offering an average $25 service in my suits at $15. An investigation will prove it. Here are the styles most men are choosing:

The Clever Dressers	Are showing a distinct preference for my new Americanized English Sack Suit, with coat somewhat narrower and shorter; soft rolling lapels, vest high enough to show above them; trousers shapely.
Men Who Like Norfolks	Have a splendid range for choice, from a big assortment of models, variously box pleated, narrow-pleated, yoke effects, belts and belt effects. Fashion has decreed gray to be the Norfolk shade this season.
The Conservative Man	Is selecting my dignified three-button sack suit, always dressy and in style. Coat medium length, shoulders medium breadth, back and front both straight-hanging, vest to conform.

But whether you want a gray or not, Georges model clothes offer you greatest opportunity for satisfying your individual tastes. There's everything here the most extreme or conservative dresser could desire; a whole season in advance of ready-mades in style. My showing of club checks and pin stripes, fashion's most favored patterns this season, is the only adequate assortment in town. My full price range is $12.50 to $40.

MANSION IS DESTROYED BY SUFFRAGETTES

LONDON, May 9.—Fresh suffragette outrages stirred England today. Members of the Young Hot Blood service of the Women's Social and Political Union burned Oaklea mansion at Barrow, causing $50,000 loss. The mansion was untenanted at the time.

Other members of the Union attempted to attack Premier and Mrs. Asquith and First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill and Mrs. Churchill as they were on their way to Victoria railway station today.

Mr. and Mrs. Asquith and Mr., and Mrs. Churchill were leaving on a journey to Venice where they will embark upon the admiralty yacht Enchantress for a cruise through the Mediterranean for inspection of British fortresses and navy depots. Only the fact that they had a heavy bodyguard of police, soldiers and private detectives saved them from injury from the hands of the militant suffragettes.

Love Letters from Socialist.

Mrs. Flora Drummond, or "General" Drummond, as she is known because of her amazonian qualities, who collapsed in Bow street court yesterday during the trial of the women arrested in the raid on the headquarters of the Women's Social and Political Union, was in serious condition today. She had refused to eat for a week to spite the government, and her health has become so badly deranged as a result that an operation may be necessary. She was removed to a nursing home today.

Interesting side lights on the organization of militants are being brought out at the trial of their leaders. Letters seized by the police include a number of passionate, burning love letters from a former Socialist member of Parliament, said to be Keir Hardie. The letters show that he is infatuated with one of the leaders of the "wild women," and that he is allied with the "cause" at her command.

The "Young Hot Bloods."

Other documents show that the most dangerous branch of the union is called the service of Young Hot Bloods. No one but young unmarried women of high courage are admitted. These are some of the questions put to them before they are admitted into this branch of the union:

Are you willing to die a violent death today?

Are you afraid of dynamite or any other high explosive?

Will you swear to hunger strike if sent to jail?

Will you renounce the softer characteristics of womankind in favor of a just principle?

Are you healthy and strong, and able to hold your own against a single policeman?

The arsonettes and the members of the dynamite squad are recruited from the Y. H. B. service.

SPAIN MAY JOIN TRIPLE ENTENTE

Announce Coming Horgan Wedding at Newport Luncheon

NEWPORT, R. I., May 9.—Miss Nina B. Horgan, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Horgan, arranged a surprise for twenty of her girl friends, by announcing her engagement to Benjamin M. McLyman, a senior at Brown University, at a luncheon at Miss Horgan's Broadway home. A basket, suspended from the ceiling by pink ribbons, contained the announcement cards, which were drawn as favors by the guests.

Miss Horgan, who is a graduate of Elmhurst Academy, Providence, is a very accomplished young lady. With her sisters, she has studied in Continental schools for four years, since her graduation from Elmhurst.

Her father, P. H. Horgan, is prominent in business at Providence and is well known as a hotel owner.

WOMAN CHARGES PREACHER WITH TAKING HER MONEY

WORCESTER, May 9.—The Rev. E. J. Dean, for several years a Methodist preacher, recently a mining promoter, will appear before Judge Utley next Tuesday charged with having unlawfully converting $600 from the savings of Mrs. Fannie A. Brown of No. 35 North Moore avenue. Mrs. Brown charges she failed to secure any satisfaction from the Rev. Dean in an interview. She had him arrested. He was arraigned in the district court and held in $1,000 for a continued hearing. He was remanded to the county jail.

RAID SOCIALIST PAPER, HOLD CHIEFS

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., May 9.—National guardsmen, headed by Major Thomas B. Davis, raided the newspaper plant of the Socialist-Labor Star here this morning, arresting Editor W. J. Thompson, and W. H. Gillespie and Elmer Rumble, assistants. The raid was inspired by Governor H. D. Hatfield, who was recently attacked by the paper in connection with the West Virginia coal strike.

'No Alcohol' Is Secret of Youth, Says Lillian Russell

NEW YORK, May 9.—At last Lillian Russell has answered the question of how she retains her youth and beauty. She says:

Alcohol is death to the beauty of mind, body and soul. I never drank anything stronger than Madeira and I have given that up.

Most women need exercise, nourishing food and a proper amount of sleep.

I have always loathed champagne and other strong drinks and fought against the cultivation of a taste for liquor. Girls who refuse to touch liquor get along. Those who begin with light drinks finally cultivate appetites for whiskey and are pitiable things to behold.

Clears Face of Pimples, Blackheads

Wonderful ZEMO Also Stops Terrible Itching AT ONCE; Cures All Skin Troubles.

Get a 25c Bottle of ZEMO Today.

"At last! At last! One application of ZEMO, the wonderful new treatment, quickly puts an end to those awful, humiliating pimples and blackheads. For the first time in months I haven't been ashamed to go out in public." A trial of ZEMO will convince you of its astonishing results in clearing the complexion.

ZEMO is a clean, antiseptic solution, not a greasy paste or ointment. You simply apply it on the afflicted part—your pimples, blotches and blackheads—all eczema sores and pains, prickly heat, rash, tetter, inflamed or reddened skin, all disappear. It also cures dandruff, which is scalp eczema. ZEMO is guaranteed to stop itching immediately. It gives instant relief.

"I have had wonderful benefit from your famous ZEMO for the skin. It has cured my face completely."—Miss E. N., Rugby Place, St. Louis, Mo.

WHAT IS GOOD TO EAT TODAY IN THE MARKET

Fresh mackerel are plentiful in the Boston market today, although there have been no arrivals of mackerel direct to T wharf. The Gloucester fleet now fishing in Southern waters is shipping via New York. The price has dropped rapidly and now ranges from twenty cents for medium sized fish to forty cents for fancy bloaters.

Asparagus has never been more plentiful in the Boston market. The native asparagus is coming into competition with that grown in the South and commission men are finding it hard to dispose of all that is offered. Fancy bushes may be obtained for 20 and 25 cents each.

Strawberries are plentiful and cheap. During the past seven days nearly 600,000 boxes have come into the local market from Norfolk and North Carolina. They sell at from nine to fifteen cents at wholesale and from twelve and one-half to twenty-five cents at retail.

Butter prices are becoming lower and lower as the receipts continue to increase. The finest creamery butter is selling at wholesale for twenty-nine cents a pound and first rate butter can be bought at retail for thirty-four cents.

Eggs are plentiful and cheap. Nearby eggs are quoted at twenty-three cents a dozen and fresh Western eggs at twenty.

OSTEOPATHS NOW IN PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, May 9.—Osteopaths from all over New England gathered here today at the opening session of the ninth annual convention of the New England Osteopathic Convention. The convention lasts two days. Dr. George W. Goode of Boston lectures tonight on "Public Health." Some of the other speakers are Dr. M. H. Nicholls of Everett, Dr. Ralph Kendrick Smith of Boston, Dr. George D. Wheeler of Melrose and Dr. M. Prichard von David of Boston.

NOON MUSIC AT KING'S CHAPEL

The last of the Saturday noon musical services, which have been a feature of the week-day services at King's Chapel since the first of the year, will be held tomorrow. Mr. Lang, the organist of the chapel, will play and A. E. Prescott will sing a solo. The regular daily services with address will be continued during the next week, after which there will be no more regular noon-day services in the chapel until next Fall.

Society Finds 'Dick, the Dreamer,' WAS 'Some Time'

The initial performance of "Dick, the Dreamer," the comic opera by members of the Vincent and Hasty Pudding clubs for the benefit of the Frances E. Willard Settlement, was fully the success predicted by Esther Slater, who announced it "would be quite some time." Society folk who missed seeing the show are eagerly awaiting the second performance tomorrow afternoon at the Boston Opera House.

Among those who scored a triumph were Vinton Freedley, T. Frederick Harry, Francis Wyman, A. Jerome Booth, Elizabeth Upham and Mrs. Charlotte Read. The opera abounds in catchy songs, the stage settings are elaborate and the costumes charming.

Miss Wilson Gets a Ride in House Members' "Lift"

WASHINGTON, May 9.—"Sorry, Miss, but you cannot ride on this elevator," said an elevator operator in the Capitol to a pretty fair-haired girl. She was about to enter one of the members' elevators on the House side.

"But I was told to go up this way," she quietly answered. "I am Miss Wilson."

"Sorry, it's against the rules," he reiterated, but as he took a card from her hand and read "Jessie Woodrow Wilson," he quickly became apologetic and said: "Step right in, Miss."

And in she stepped and up she rode.

DID WELLESLEY GIRLS BURN UP THAT FORENSIC?

Wellesley sophomores are puzzled, and Wellesley Juniors are jubilant. But nobody outside of the former class knows whether or not the president's forensic was really destroyed by fire, as it was due to have been, or whether sophomore vigilance prevented this feat from accomplishment.

The committee on nonacademic interests decided that five hours of one day the juniors might pick could be devoted to the mystic ceremony. Consequently, a large sign appeared in College Hall bearing a challenge of the juniors to the sophomores. Effort would be made to burn the 1914 forensic in some spot within the campus between 4:30 in the afternoon and 9:30 at night, it was announced.

Either the junior president, Miss Elizabeth McConaughy, or 1914's vice-president, Miss Marjorie C. Day, together with at least twenty classmates, had to be present when the burning took place, according to Wellesley tradition.

The excitement began promptly at 4:30, when a mammoth "animal" fashioned from sheets, with junior girls inside, appeared near College Hall. The sophomores soon discovered the strange "animal" and set up cheering wildly. If a sophomore catches even a glimpse of the blazing paper and promptly cheers, honors go to her class.

Later on a fleet of canoes appeared in Lake Waban, causing anxious sophomores to believe that effort had been made to conduct the "burning" on the campus shore. Still later a bevy of 1915 girls discovered a mysterious gathering of 1914 students in the West Woods.

REGULARS SQUAD AT SOLDIER'S MASS

Arrangements have been made for a detail of United States troops with a band from the forts of Boston harbor at the military mass to be held at Castle Island on Sunday, May 25, in honor of Spanish War dead. The arrangements for the attendance of troops were made at Washington by Congressman Murray with the War Department.

THIS WEEK'S GOOD NEWS

We Want You to Know
"BETSY BARBARA" AND HER DRESSES

First of all, "Betsy Barbara" is a real little girl. Her hair is Dutch clipped in the most approved fashion with a big floppy bow on top, and her mother believes strongly in the simplicity of youngsters' clothes. Betsy Barbara's dresses are so simple and so unusual we want to tell other mothers about them. Betsy Barbara will be just nine years old in a few weeks and we'll tell you about her party dress then, but now we talk about her

School Dresses

One is of polka dotted fine rep; front and back panel laid in pleats to give necessary fullness. Sailor collar, wide belt and cuffs of white rep. Deep growing hem.

Another of sturdy white rep has wide belt of colored linen ends each side of the front pleated panel. Collar and cuffs of linen overlaid with white and trimmed with colored linen buttons. Open all the way down the front so it is easy to launder.

These little dresses bear inspection inside and out for it is a feature of "Betsy Barbara's" dresses that they should be very finely made throughout.

They Cost But $3.95

Each week we will tell you about some of "Betsy Barbara's" frocks and we hope you will think them as pretty as we do.

GIBLIN ASSAILS SPEAKER CUSHING AND LOMASNEY

Representative Thomas J. Giblin of East Boston on the floor of the House of Representatives today made bitter attacks upon Speaker Cushing and Representative Martin M. Lomasney, the Ward 8 leader. He charged the former with being unfair and with attempting to stifle debate on an important matter of legislation. He accused Lomasney of using "underhand tactics" and intimated the latter was in league with powerful interests on "certain legislation matters."

The debate was on the bill providing for the widening and extension of Avery street, Boston. The measure has been endorsed by the Chamber of Commerce.

PROVIDENCE BOY HURT BY AUTO

PROVIDENCE, May 9.—Howard Bradley, a twelve-year-old boy, was struck by an automobile belonging to Dr. E. F. Henry of Cranston just as he was leaving SS. Peter and Paul's Cathedral, suffering a fractured skull and internal injuries.

HOUSE TO CONSIDER TRAIN REDUCTION

Without debate and on a voice vote, the House of Representatives today adopted an order directing the Railroad Commission to investigate and report as to the advisability of the recent reduction in train service on the Fitchburg division of the Boston & Maine railroad.

1,500 to Show '76 Spirit in the Fight to Save 'Horribles'

More than 1,500 young men members of the Bunker Hill Day Feature Association will march on City Hall as a protest to the action of John F. Dever, director of the city's celebration committee, in ruling out the antique and horrible parade in favor of a firemen's parade on the seventeenth of June.

The Charlestown Veteran Firemen's Association recently came out with a full program of its parade and muster. The young men claim there was a breach of faith in not notifying them that the promised public hearing to any opposition would not be granted.

James J. Mullen, assistant clerk of the Charlestown police court said today: "There has been considerable gumshoe work by certain persons who are opposed to our association conducting the parade. If necessary, we shall march on City Hall in protest. The old spirit of Bunker Hill is in the hearts of Charlestown youths yet, and it will take a good battle before it is driven out."

OFFICES LEAST OF WILSON'S WORRIES

WASHINGTON, May 9.—"I have a hundred things to do and can do but ten of them," said President Wilson, when asked when he will appoint new commissioners of the District of Columbia, by newspaper men. It was remarked that the President is progressing in decimals since he wrote to Colonel George Harvey: "I am beginning to think my mind is a one-track road."

DISAPPOINTED IN LOVE SUIT, TRIES SUICIDE

Love for a girl who had been won by a rival was the cause of Peter B. Siegel, a former real estate dealer, trying to commit suicide in the Hotel Rexford by inhaling gas early today.

Night Watchman Edward De Breuyl traced the gas to Siegel's room. In a fight which threw the hotel into an uproar, De Breuyl overpowered Siegel and turned him over to the police. He is at the Psycopathic Hospital in Brookline for observation.

Siegel lived with his sister, Mrs. Simon Rudnick, at No. 9 Sargent street, Dorchester. Mrs. Rudnick said today:

"Peter for the last two years has been in love with a woman in the West End. We have tried to talk him out of his mad infatuation. This woman telephoned me last night she had told Peter al' was off between them. I telephoned all over the city to try and locate him. It wasn't until the police told me today I knew he had attempted to kill himself.

"Peter used to be in the real estate business. Through several bad deals he lost his money. For the past year he has not been doing anything. He has been receiving help from my mother.

"All the time he was planning to marry this woman. But she liked things he couldn't buy her. When she heard her other sweetheart was coming back she told Peter it was all over. I guess it nearly broke his heart and the poor boy tried to commit suicide."

Siegel left four letters, one to his sweetheart, the others to his creditors and his mother, Mrs. Benjamin Siegel. In his mother's letter he said he was despondent, mentioned persons to whom he owed money and declared "he was doing the best thing, as he had been too much of a burden on her."

QUINCY MAN FINED $10 FOR ASSAULTING SISTER'S CALLER

John McPherson of Atlanta in the Quincy police court today was accused of assaulting Willis E. Perham of Neponset, because the latter called on McPherson's seventeen-year-old sister, Miss Ellie McPherson. According to the story told to Judge Avery, the girl met Perham some time ago and later the young man called on her at her home. After Perham left the house, the court was informed, McPherson told his sister not to invite her caller again. Perham called a second time, and it was then that McPherson was charged with attacking the victor. McPherson was fined $10 and put on probation until July 28.

DECLARES PSYCHIST 'TRUST' IN NEW YORK MADE $100,000,000

CHICAGO, May 9.—State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne returned to Chicago today and told of his investigations of the so-called clairvoyants' trust.

The prosecutor declared that the clairvoyant ring which had been operating in Chicago for eighteen months, came here from New York, where they swindled their victims out of $1,000,000.

Hoyne left the city several days ago with Joseph M. Ryan, alias Professor Charles T. Crane, a clairvoyant, who was brought here from Lusk, Wyo., charged with swindling.

HOLD TWO MEN ON ROBBERY CHARGE

John Clark and Frank Devine, expressmen of Roxbury, appeared before Judge Bennett in the police court today, charged with robbing Deane Hoyte of Milton, N. H., of $20 in Oak street, South End, yesterday. The men pleaded not guilty, but probable cause was found, and they were held in $2,000 bail each for the Grand Jury. Hiyte told Judge Bennett that he had come to Boston with his wife to do some shopping, and that while she was in a hair-dressing parlor, he met the two men and invited them to have a drink. While passing thrugh Oak street one of them struck him on the head, while the other went through his pockets. Several people chased the two men and held them until the arrival of the officers.

BALLOON WITH 3 ABOARD LOST

KOENIGSBERG, Germany, May 9.—The Cassiopeia, a spherical German military balloon, which ascended from this city Wednesday with Captain Von Woheser and two passengers on board, has been missing forty-eight hours and fears are felt for the safety of the aeronauts. The balloon was last seen near Pillau, twenty-five miles away, traveling the Frischen Ehrun peninsula in a storm.

Hot Hash Basis of Defense in Death Case on Warship

That the emptying of a frying pan filled with ot hash on the head of Thomas Johnson, a cook aboard the warship Nebraska, caused Johnson to grab a penknife to defend himself, was the substance of the testimony of Steward Moulton at a court-martial trial at the Charlestown Navy Yard today on charges of manslaughter brought against Johnson for causing the death of A. Wilmot, another cook.

Moulton was the first of four witnesses for the defence put on the stand by Lieutenant C. B. Vogel, U. S. M. C. The trial will be completed tomorrow.

WANNE, Westphalia, May 9.—Marcel G. Des Moulinais, a French aviator who is flying from Bremen to London, descended here to replenish his fuel, and restarted at 11:20 o'clock. He started from Bremen at 8:40 a. m. today.

EMPLOYED MEN BECAUSE OF SHAPE OF THEIR HEADS

LAPORTE, Ind., May 9.—Employing men for responsible positions because of their shape of their heads, is asserted here today to be one of the reasons for the reorganization of the M. Rumely Company, makers of threshing machinery. Clarence S. Funk, general manager of the International Harvester Company, will head the Rumely concern. Employing men whose skull measurements fitted the job is said to have been a hobby of Dr. Edward A. Rumely, president of the concern. Family histories also played an important part in selecting men. Holders of $10,000,000 notes are said to have demanded the reorganization.

2½ Months' Delay in Opening the New HILTON Chicago Store at Cor. State & Quincy Sts. is the Reason for This FORCED SALE of

$35,000

Worth of Spring Suits for Men at Practically One-third Off Regular Prices

WE are opening one of the finest clothes shops for men in the United States in Chicago, in the new Kesner Building.

We were positively assured that the store would be in readiness for occupancy on March 1st. It is already May 9th and the store is not ready yet. The builders simply bit off more than they could chew—and we've had to swallow the consequences of their judgment.

Our Chicago store will be the biggest one of the Hilton chain of clothes shops, and we made up an enormous stock for it, because we counted on opening for business on March 1st. The season is now so far advanced as to make it impossible for this store to hope to dispose of the vast quantity of merchandise which we made up for it. That is why we are placing on sale in our local store today $35,000 worth of this Chicago stock at these pronounced sacrifices on former prices.

$45.00 Suits (Chicago Stock) $30.00
$40.00 Suits (Chicago Stock) $27.50
$35.00 Suits (Chicago Stock) $25.00
$30.00 Suits (Chicago Stock) $20.00

$25.00 Suits (Chicago Stock) $16.50
$22.50 Suits (Chicago Stock) $15.00
$20.00 Suits (Chicago Stock) $12.50

Represented in this huge collection of merchandise are the smart new Norfolks; the trim English Soft Roll Suits; the dapper Sack Suits with patch pockets, as well as conservative models, unfinished and plain blue serges, the new white on black; pin stripes, rich browns, greys, striking plaids and checks, &c. All sizes.

SENATE GETS UNDERWOOD TARIFF BILL

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Shortly after the Senate convened today the Underwood tariff bill was brought over from the House and the long fight on the measure was under way.

The first step toward its ultimate enactment was its perfunctory reading on the floor of the Senate and its reference to the Senate Finance Committee. The troublesome sugar and wool schedules were assigned sub-committees 1 and 2 of the Finance Committee, composed, in the first instance, of Senators Stone, Thomas, James and Simmons, and in the second of Senators Williams, Shively, Gore and Simmons. The remaining schedules were equally divided between sub-committees 1 and 2 and sub-committee 3.

Melrose Women Active in Poster War Against Rum

"Think it over" posters have been placed all over the town of Melrose today. Society women in autos have covered residential sections hanging posters to door bells. Packages in the dry goods stores have stickers on them bearing these words:

Speed, Aim, Ambition,
Make a Good Ball Player;
Liquor injures all three;
Ask the Red Sox, Boys.

Among the prominent people interested in this movement are Victor A. Friend, president of the Board of Trade; C. J. F. Slayton, Dr. Walter H. Flanders, J. F. Underhill, Mrs. Edwin S. Small and others.

FORMER SENATOR F. O. BRIGGS DEAD

TRENTON, N. J., May 9.—Former United States Senator Frank O. Briggs is dead. He was born in Concord, N. H., in 1851, and was graduated from West Point Military Academy in 1872.

COMMISSIONERS APPROVE NEW RAILROAD BILL

"We believe that experience has demonstrated that it is unwise for the Commonwealth to delay longer in the assertion of its right of regulation over every public service corporation which claims the protection of its laws," declares the report of Railroad Commissioners F. J. M'Leod and Clinton White, and Bank Commissioner Augustus L. Thorndike, to the Legislature, on the probable effect of Sections 15 and 16 of the pending Washburn railroad bill.

The commissioners, after answering questions in thirty-nine typewritten pages, express their general views of the proposed sections. "We are of the opinion," they say, "that Sections 15 and 16 of the pending bill represent on the whole an improvement upon the present law."

It makes little difference what provisions of law we enact in regard to the issue of railroad securities if the dominant railroad of this Commonwealth is left free to act upon the assumption that in its general corporate affairs it is not a Massachusetts corporation and that it may continue to issue its stocks and bonds without the approval of the Board of Railroad Commissioners or any other public board which may be its successor.

As to the effect of the proposed legislation on the powers of the proposed Public Service Commission, the commissioners say the proposed Public Service Commission will unquestionably be able more effectually to supervise and regulate the issue of corporate securities by railroad companies than under the present provisions of the law.

"The present system of railroad regulation in this State," say the commissioners, "no matter how admirably it may have served the needs of an earlier time, is no longer adequate for the larger needs of the present day; the Railroad Commission with its present organization and equipment is no longer an efficient instrument for the proper discharge even of the powers which are vested in it under the present law.

One good effect of the proposed legislation the Commissioners note in their finding that "it is undoubtedly true that large public improvements upon the Boston & Albany and other leased railroads could be effected with much less embarrassment and delay if Sections 15 and 16 of the pending bill were enacted into law.

We believe that Sections 15 and 16 are not necessary to enable the Boston & Albany Railroad to raise the money necessary to electrify any substantial part of its road, but the provisions of these sections are desirable in the interest of securing the prompt undertaking and completion of such improvements.

But Sections 15 and 16, which enable a railroad corporation to issue unsecured bonds in lieu of mortgage bonds to twice the present legal extent, would offer the Boston & Albany new possibilities of bond issue.

A Personal Word With You

As busy as this store always was—it is a much busier place now—and made so because the buyers of each department are imbued with the spirit of quality giving at prices that are the same for better goods, or lower prices for the same kind of goods, than sold anywhere else.

As easy to reach as it always was—it is easier to reach now, thanks to the subways and car systems. This store has really become "The Right Store In The Right Part Of Boston."

We served 111,436 more customers the past year, ending May 1st, than the year before.

Our floor space is about ten times larger than it was ten years ago. I take much pride in the growth of this store, for it has become recognized as one of the business factors in the retail life of this, my native City.

We are growing—yes, more than that, with your help we grew—now watch us grow bigger and, if possible, better.

I want you satisfied. Every employee is instructed to tell you the truth. "Your money back if you want it."

KING DEFENDS HIS SURRENDER OF SCUTARI

CETTINGE, Montenegro, May 9.—King Nicholas personally went before the Skupshtina, the national Parliament, to-day, and defended his action in giving way to the Powers on the question of retaining Scutari. He declared that annihilation would inevitably have followed if Montenegro had not yielded. He added that Russia had promised to protect Montenegro's interests in the ambassadors' conference in London and elsewhere.

The statement was well received and Nicholas was cheered. Later the appointment of General Janko Voukotitch to be premier and minister of war was announced. He led a wing of the army in the investment of Scutari.

Nearly all the Montenegrin troops have now left Scutari, the evacuation having been commenced yesterday morning. The formal surrender will not take place until Sunday. An Austrian steamer will convey the commanders of the foreign war ships blockading the Montenegrin coast to Scutari where the formal ceremonies will occur.

M. P. Lazentotz, special commissioner of the Montenegrin government, has been sent by King Nicholas to confer with Admiral Burney, commander in chief of the international blockading squadron.

King Nicholas feels very keenly the humiliation of losing Scutari and it is again reported he will abdicate in favor of Crown Prince Danilo.

ANDOVER BOYS SEEK LOOT FROM 'INVALID THIEF'

ANDOVER, May 9.—Andover students today are awaiting word from Philadelphia [illegible] that much of the jewelry, clothing and books recently stolen from the academy will be found in the possession of William Wellington of London, now a prisoner in the Pennsylvania city.

Wellington is being held pending an investigation whether he can be deported on the ground of insanity. He came to Andover several weeks ago, saying [illegible] was seeking a [illegible].

While here Wellington [illegible] acquainted with students at the academy. It was reported after his departure that some of their personal belongings were missing.

When taken into custody Wellington had jewelry belonging to Dan R. Hanna, grandson of the late Mark Hanna, and D. C. Armour, both students at Andover.

It is charged that he secured money and goods to a value of at least $400 on the strength of the name of Dan R. Hanna and Armour.

An investigation of Wellington's belongings showed that they consisted of [illegible] clothing, [illegible] and [illegible] books. One of the books bore the stamp of an Andover library.

Wellington here posed as a wealthy Englishman of noble birth. He was deported to England in May, 1912.

Wins French Medal But May Lose Job if He Accepts It

PARIS, May 9.—In the throng that watched the troops march by as King Alfonso of Spain and President Poincare drove through the Champs Elysees on his present visit here was Edward Dewardner of Cedarhurst, L. I. A runaway horse dashed down the avenue from the Arc de Triomphe and bowled over a woman and several [illegible] who tried to stop it.

Dewardner [illegible] the runaway's nostrils and ear and threw it.

When President Poincaire learned of Dewardner's prompt gallantry he sent his congratulations and intimated that he would decorate him.

"I may win a medal [illegible] lose my job," said Dewardner [illegible]. "When I stopped the horse I should have been hard at work [illegible] I wanted to see the young King."

FOSS FOR CHELSEA TUNNEL RESOLVE

Governor Foss has signed the resolve requiring the Transit Commission to estimate the cost of a trolley tunnel or subway between Boston and Chelsea, and determine on one of two routes, either from the present subway in Haymarket square by way of Charlestown or from the subway in Scollay square under the harbor directly to Chelsea. The report is to be made to the Legislature of 1914.

TALK PLAN TO END PRIZE DRILL IN HIGH SCHOOLS

The plan to abolish the annual prize drill in the [illegible] schools, as favored by Headmaster George A. Evans of Charlestown High [illegible] to make rules governing it, was [illegible] discussed by the students today.

As Headmaster James E. Thomas of Dorchester High favors only local competition, there is a feeling that if these two schools drop out the annual drill will be dropped. Mr. Thomas will hold a prize drill for his school only at Franklin Field, the [illegible] of twelve companies competing.

Headmaster [illegible] of Hyde Park also prefers [illegible] drill for his [illegible] battalion [illegible] of the two companies competing in Mechanics Hall.

English High and Boston Latin, which form the First, Second and Third Regiments of the Boston School Cadets, with a total of forty-two companies, more than twice the number of the suburban high schools, strongly favor the drill.

The boys and girls, it is said, prefer the annual prize drill, as does Superintendent Dyer.

FEARING JAPS, CALL BACK 2 U. S. WARSHIPS

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The armored cruisers Tennessee and Washington have been ordered home at once from Turkish waters. The navy department learns that Japan will receive from English shipbuilders in the next few weeks the huge battle cruiser Kongo.

The navy department is apprehensive that in case of war both the Tennessee and the Washington would be caught by a superior force and captured or destroyed.

The Kongo is a battleship cruiser of 27,500 tons. She has a battery of eight 13½-inch guns. Her speed is twenty-seven knots per hour.

The Tennessee and Washington are armored cruisers of 14,500 tons. The main battery of each is four ten-inch guns. Their speed is 22.16 knots per hour.

The power of the Kongo's guns is so great that she could remain out of range of the smaller guns aboard the American cruisers and hammer them to pieces without their being able to fire an effective shot in return.

This indicates how serious is the present situation between our country and Japan, in the view of the State Department.

This is also reflected in the spirit at the White House and the State Department today. The diplomatic relations of the United States and Japan are already distinctly strained.

Viscount Chinda, Japanese ambassador, had a conference with Secretary of State Bryan today which lasted twenty-seven minutes and at which the Japanese diplomat presented Japan's views on the California alien land law. At the close of the conference Ambassador Chinda said.

"My lips are sealed and I can say nothing about the results of the conference."

Secretary Bryan declared that he could give no intimation of the result of the conference and left immediately for the White House to attend the cabinet meeting where the Japanese situation was discussed at length.

Ambassador Chinda was ushered into Secretary Bryan's office at 9.40 o'clock and left there at 10.07 o'clock. The ambassador then returned to the Japanese embassy.

TAX RESOLVE IS PASSED IN SENATE

By a vote of 23 to 1, the State Senate today passed a resolve providing for an amendment to the State Constitution to permit the Legislature to impose a tax on personal property and upon incomes. Senator Wilton B. Fay of Medford, Republican, was the only Senator who voted against the measure. The resolve was reported by Senator Lombard Williams of Dedham for the Committee on Taxation. It now goes to the House for concurrent action.

SUSPEND NAVY YARD MASTER MECHANIC

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 9.—Frank E. Wearin, master mechanic in the machinery division of the navy yard here, was today suspended by order of Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt, after a hearing by a board of naval officers at the request of several mechanics under Wearin's supervision. Charges of inefficiency, abusive language and favoritism were sustained by the navy department.

INVESTIGATION OF RAILWAYS FAVORED

The Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives today reported favorably on the resolve directing the Railroad Commission and the Boston Transit Commission to jointly investigate the service of the Boston Elevated and the Bay State Street Railway Companies.

PIMPLES AND SORT OF RASH

First Between Fingers, Spread Rapidly to Palms of Hands, Lower Limbs and Soles of Feet. Healed Through Use of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment.

Dedham Ave., Needham, Mass.—"My trouble showed its presence first between the fingers. It developed in the form of peeling off the skin. Then it spread rapidly to the palms of my hands, and next on my lower limbs and the soles of my feet. On my lower limbs pimples and a sort of rash developed, which led at times to so great irritation as to make me unthinkingly seek relief by scratching, only to result in the apparent spreading of the trouble. My flesh in the affected parts became hot and dry. The disfigurement on my hands was unpleasantly noticeable. Refreshing sleep under such conditions was wholly impossible, and a nervous condition followed. I was compelled to wear bandages on my feet to relieve the irritating effect of my shoes.

"Various remedies were tried but none of them seemed to give any definite benefit until I resorted to Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Improvement began at once and the gradual disappearance of the patches on my hands with the accompanying itching and burning resulted. My limbs and feet yielded more slowly to the treatment, but eventually they also were healed through the use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) A. A. Cambridge, May 18, 1912.

Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold everywhere. A single set is often sufficient. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

☞ Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

What does this statement mean to you?

What do you see to influence you in the fact that right here in Boston in our own workshops we are making 3000 suits a week?

We wouldn't be producing so many suits unless there was a demand for them, of course.

It must be that a lot of people believe in the value, the quality, the style, the real desirability of Morse-Made Clothes and back up their belief by buying them. We couldn't continue to produce 3000 suits a week if the clothes were high-priced, or old-style, or undesirable in any way because we wouldn't be able to sell them.

Being such large producers we consume huge quantities of cloth, linings, trimmings. This means buying raw materials at bottom prices, thereby reducing cost of production so that we sell our clothes at prices that are really low and still make the legitimate profit to which we are entitled.

Another thing worth considering. With 3000 suits coming out of our workrooms every week, we're able to show you new things all the time in a variety that other stores can't begin to equal.

With these facts in front of you, do you think you are giving yourself a square deal if you neglect to come to our store for that suit you are going to buy? Don't you owe it to yourself to at least see what we can give you for your money?

Think it over.

After you've been here, and have seen what we've done to this store in improvements, we believe you'll be pleased and pronounce it the model Clothing Store of New England.

We're making strong efforts to make this the store of quality, price and service and our growing business proves we have been most successful.

We specialize those, best clothes made, Hart Schaffner & Marx Good Clothes and have talked their $25 suits until our sales are doubling on this grade—we suggest you come here and in half an hour be fitted to one of these suits and avoid irritating delays, frequent disappointments and higher cost of a made-to-measure suit—other H. S. & M. suits at $18, $20 and up to $30

We're very enthusiastic about the Continental Wonder Clothes. We know they're equal to the usual $20 suit, and they have our bond guaranteeing six months' service. There are beautiful blue serges, fine dark worsteds and gray clays and fancy cheviots and cassimeres. Our sales on $15 suits have doubled, and the Guaranteed Wonder Clothes are the cause. We know, and you'll know on wearing, they are the best suits in the world at $15.

This has always been the blue serge store of the city. We show this summer the greatest stock we have ever had. The Wonder Clothes at $15; others at $10 and $12.75—and Hart Shaffner & Marx Serges at $20, $25 and $30. Come here for your blue serge suit.

Saturday should be our record day for this season. The last two Saturdays have shown wonderful increase in business, and tomorrow should be the banner day. You'll find plenty of extra salesmen and good service at this store.

M'COY, FRIEND OF CHILDREN, DIES ON DUTY

William E. McCoy, for the past twelve years station agent for the New Haven road at the Blue Hill avenue station in Dorchester and known in the neighborhood as the "children's friend," died suddenly today while selling a ticket to a Dorchester commuter. McCoy collapsed, falling to the floor. The commuter summoned medical aid, but McCoy was dead when a physician reached him. Death was said to be due to heart disease.

Hundreds of Dorchester school children called McCoy their friend and greeted him joyously whenever they saw him. McCoy always looked out for them as they crossed the railroad tracks on their way to school and warned them of approaching trains. He had also become popular with men and women because of his unfailing politeness.

McCoy was fifty-seven years old. He is survived by his wife and a son and daughter, who live at No. 229 Selden street, Mattapan.

COOK'S Imperial Extra Dry Champagne

When you buy a rib roast you pay for the bone and the "trim" (which you can't eat) as well as the meat, which you can eat.

If a butcher came along who would sell you as good or better meat and who did not charge for the bone and trim, you would buy from him—that's not being "cheap," it's being intelligent.

When you buy a foreign made champagne you're paying $1.00 for import duty and ocean freight (which you can't drink—that's the "bone and trim") and $1.00 for the pint of wine.

When you buy Cook's Imperial you pay $1.00 (no bone—no trim) for a champagne that is truly superior in every respect—purity, sparkle, fragrance and deliciousness.

GIRL'S FATHER CALLS PISCOPO DIARY FICTION

Editor Boston AMERICAN.

Mr. de Francesco does not wish to be drawn into controversy either with the Boston AMERICAN or with the dead, but at the same time does not wish to have himself or his daughter placed in any false light by the publication of Mr Piscopo's diary, which your paper has undertaken.

Without intending any offence to Mr Piscopo's family or his friends, Mr de Francesco is obliged to say that this diary is the product of a diseased and disordered mind.

The true facts are as follows:

His daughter met Mr. Piscopo about eighteen months ago, and in a short time the latter asked her hand in marriage. Mr de Francesco told him that the girl was only seventeen, that the man was thirty-two and earning only twelve dollars per week, that the girl was in a good home and well provided for, and it would not be right to give her hand in marriage to a man who could not support her.

Wanted Three Years' Probation.

Mr. de Francesco suggested that Mr Piscopo wait, become a registered pharmacist, improve his condition, and at the end of three years if their love still continued, there would be no parental objection to the marriage.

On these conditions the young man was allowed to come to the home, seeing the girl only in the presence of the family and at no time seeing her alone.

Shortly after, Mr. Piscopo borrowed a small sum of money from Dr. Andreola, a reputable Italian physician in the North End, to open a drug store in Revere in partnership with him, but failed to do it or to make any accounting of the money to the doctor. In fact, the doctor brought suit and recovered judgment against him in court.

Expressed Distaste for Him.

The young man's conduct in this and other matters did not seem honorable to Mr de Francesco, and as he did not seem to be making any effort to improve his condition in life, Mr. de Francesco ordered his attention to cease. This was about one year ago.

The girl was most carefully reared—a good daughter of good parents. Whatever her feelings were in the beginning, she learned his true character at that time, and expressed great distaste for him to her family and to her friends. For the past year he received no encouragement at her hands.

Mr. Piscopo's statement that he was successful in becoming a registered pharmacist is false. The statement that the girl has worked for five years, turning in her earnings to her family, is false. She has worked only for a short time and her father invested her earnings in a piece of land near his own, title to which was in her own name.

Says Letters Are Forgeries.

The letters purporting to be true copies of what the girl wrote to him are absolutely false, and the whole story is simply the concoction of a diseased mind, probably influenced by a drug, to which it is now known that the young man was addicted.

My client buried his resentment with his child. There remains only the sorrow that any loving mother and father must feel over the loss of an only and pure daughter.

It is their desire that your paper publish this statement. They do not wish public sympathy to be misplaced and feel that this explanation is necessary in order that this remarkable diary may be properly understood.

Yours very truly,
MITCHELL FREIMAN,
Attorney for James de Francesco

VERMONT VETS TO SEE GETTYSBURG

MONTPELIER, Vt., May 9.—At least 400 Vermont Civil War veterans will take part next July in the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg on the famous battlefield. The Vermonters will leave this city on June 28. The State has appropriated $10,000 to defray all expenses of the trip.

PULMOTOR SAVES WORCESTER MAN

WORCESTER, May 9.—James D. Moore, 80 years old, of No. 9 Quincy street, who became unconscious from fumes of a gas stove in the kitchen of his home, was saved by the use of a pulmotor recently acquired by the Police Department.

AUTOPSY IN AUTO CASE.

WESTFIELD, May 9.—Medical Examiner George H. James will hold an autopsy tomorrow on the body of Thomas C. Judson, sixty-six, who died at the Noble Hospital after being struck by an automobile, driven April 28, by James White, a neighbor.

MOST SICKNESS COMES FROM WEAK, INACTIVE KIDNEYS

Recent Reports Show Hundreds Suffer With Kidney Troubles and Don't Know It.

There are scores of nervous, tired, run-down people throughout the city, suffering with pains in the back and sides, dizzy spells, weaknesses of the bladder (frequently causing annoyance at night), who fail to realize the seriousness of their troubles until such conditions as chronic rheumatism, bladder troubles, dropsy, diabetes or even Bright's disease result.

All this is due to weak, inactive kidneys. The kidneys are the filterers of the blood, and no one can be well and healthy unless the kidneys work properly. It is even more important than that the bowels move regularly.

If you suffer with such symptoms don't neglect yourself another day and run the risk of serious complications. Secure an original package of the new discovery, Croxone, which costs but a trifle, and commence its use at once. When you have taken a few doses, you will be surprised how differently you will feel.

Croxone cures the worst cases of kidney, bladder trouble, and rheumatism, because it removes the cause. It cleans out the kidneys, and makes them filter out all the poisonous waste matter and uric acid, that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; soothes and heals the bladder, and quickly relieves you of all your misery.

You will find Croxone different from all other remedies. It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered, it is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results.

An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if it fails to give the desired results the very first time you use it.

EPISCOPAL CLERGY VOTES A STRICTER WEDLOCK SERVICE

NEW YORK, May 9.—"It is the function of the church to encourage young people to marry. No less is it the church's solemn duty to supply such instruction and safeguards as will help to make wedlock happy, productive and permanent."

Episcopal clergymen of Manhattan, including the rectors of the largest churches, by a vote of 6 to 1, agree with the foregoing declaration of the Social Service Commission of the diocese of New York.

The clergy likewise favors requirement by their church and by the laws of the State of health certificates for marriage.

WOMEN RAISING FUND FOR PRESENT TO MANUEL'S BRIDE

LISBON, May 9.—Portuguese women today started raising a fund with which to purchase a wedding present for Princess Augusta Victoria of Hohenzollern, fiancee of ex-King Manuel of Portugal. Women members of royalist and republican families alike are contributing. Several thousand dollars were subscribed in Oporto. The feminist movement is making rapid headway in Portugal, but in paradoxical fashion. While working for vote, many of the women [illegible] a republic.

Men in every walk of life—in every profession, business, occupation—in large and ever increasing numbers—are wearing clothes that bear the Kennedy label. This would not and could not be the case if this Live Store were conducted for the benefit of any one particular class.

This is a store for all men who appreciate good clothes and good service—who have a clear idea of the value of their money, and want 100 cents' worth for every dollar they spend.

For the man of small means, we offer all wool, well tailored, guaranteed suits as low as $12.50. Our highest price is $35.00, which—in this store—buys the finest materials, workmanship and style that can be produced.

The stock we offer between these two price limits is the largest that ever found shelter under one roof in New England. In patterns and models, the variety is as wide as from East to West. No one mill could produce such a diversity of fabrics. No one mind could conceive such a multiplicity of styles.

Whatever your figure demands or fancy dictates, you'll find it here at a price well within your means.

And because of our low rent and spot-cash buying and selling, you'll find it a better value by $3.00 to $10.00 than any high-rent charge-account store can afford to offer.

Kuppenheimer Suits

There's not the least shadow of a doubt as to the high character of these garments. From the pure wool fabrics from which they are made to the last finishing touch of the fine hand tailoring, they are constructed as good clothes should be, and must be to give fullest and most lasting satisfaction. There's a style to suit every fancy and a size for every figure.

$18 $20 $22.50 to $35

Nothing very remarkable about a $12.50 price, but there are many remarkable features about the clothes we sell at that figure. They're all wool, finely tailored, and carry the Kennedy Guarantee.

$12.50

Beautiful grays and blues in plain, club check and pin stripe patterns—built on honor and styled like those costing twice as much. Such qualities as these are scarce at $20 elsewhere. Plenty here at

CASSIDY TELLS OF THREE PURE FOOD LAWS AWAITING SIGNATURE

By HARRY P. CASSIDY.

Three pure food bills are today in the hands of Governor Foss, awaiting only his signature to become law.

1. A bill to forbid the sale of candy containing a liquor which contains more than 1 per cent alcohol. This was known as the "Brandy Drop Bill," as it is aimed to prevent the sale of candies containing brandy and other concoctions of a similar nature.

There was little real opposition to this bill. It was reported favorably by the Committee on Public Health, and came to the House for passage. The House took it up on a Friday afternoon when the members were in a hurry to get away and had some fun with the bill and its subject. It was defeated, but on the following Monday was given back to the committee, and when again reported favorably to the House, went through both branches without difficulty.

2. A bill to regulate the manufacture and sale of sausage. The bill forbids making or selling sausage which contains artificial color, or which contains more than 2 per cent cereal, or more than 3 per cent water.

Sets Government tSandard.

This bill simply establishes the government standard in Massachusetts. It was opposed by a group of sausage manufacturers, but was endorsed by Freedom Hutchinson, representing the North, Cudahy and Squire packing companies, and by high class Boston sausage firms.

Mr. Hutchinson said:

"I have consulted with our companies on this matter, and they have no objection to this bill. We use a little cereal in our sausage at the present time, but we don't need it, and we are perfectly ready to do without it.

Cereal used in sausage cheats the customer. The cereal and meat are mixed and then water is poured in. The cereal absorbs the water, and swells just as breakfast foods absorb milk. The result is that the finished sausage is full of water and the customer who buys by weight pays fifteen cents a pint for the water in the sausage.

3. A bill to regulate the sale of eggs unfit for food.

This bill was introduced by Representative John F. McCarthy of Boston. The other two bills I had introduced. The McCarthy bill is modeled on the Pennsylvania law on rotten eggs. It forbids the sale for food of eggs wholly or in part decomposed, putrid or tainted. A "spot" egg is partly decomposed, but the State Board of Health and the City Board of Health have allowed them to be sold, applying an ammonia test to determine whether an egg was decomposed under the meaning of the old law.

Regarding Egg Sales.

This bill introduced by Representative McCarthy not only forbids the sale for food of "spot" eggs, but it makes it easier for inspectors to enforce the law, by forbidding the sale, delivery or receipt of rotten eggs on premises where food products are prepared.

This bill is an immense improvement over the present law. The law today does not deal with eggs expressly at all, and prosecutions of dealers in rotten eggs must be made under the general statute.

The McCarthy bill is expected to prevent in the future the sale of rotten eggs to bakers for use in cakes and pies. Next year an attempt will be made to perfect the egg bill by adding an amendment requiring all spots and rots to be denatured with kerosene so as to make it impossible to use them for food.

The glucose-in-candy bill in the Senate was again postponed and is expected to come up next Wednesday. Senator Walter E. McLane of Fall River moved to postpone consideration of the bill.

CYCLOPEDIAS FOR YOU ARE READY TODAY

Today the cyclopedias are on sale by the AMERICAN and those who were unable to get them last Friday or Saturday may get them today or tomorrow.

The complete set comprises five beautiful volumes bound in English cloth and containing all the knowledge of the entire world, from the earliest times down to the present day. The volumes are illustrated with magnificent colored plates, full page and double page engravings, text pictures and educational charts.

At the distributing points of the AMERICAN, today and tomorrow, for $1.98, when accompanied by one coupon printed elsewhere in this issue, these sets may be obtained.

Many thousands of our readers have already got this set and are loud in their praise of its great worth.

It is a reference book of inestimable value to all, for the boys and girls at school as well as for the older members of the family—in fact, for all men, women and children that think, talk and read. It should be in every home, school and place of business ready for everyday use.

Mail orders will be filled on the same terms, the receiver to pay all express charges.

FITZGERALD HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

John W. Fitzgerald, aged twenty-three, of No. 390 Second street, South Boston, before Judge Fallon in the South Boston District Court on a charge of murder was held without bail for a hearing next Tuesday. Fitzgerald is alleged to be one of the men who assaulted Michael McDonough outside a saloon at Second street and Dorchester avenue Saturday night. McDonough died from his injuries. Thomas F. Kinsela is now in jail on the same charge.

GO TO COLLEGE YOUNG; WED EARLY, ADVISES DR. LOWELL

President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard agrees with President Emeritus Eliot that early marriages are necessary for true happiness. Speaking at a dinner tendered him at the University Club in Chicago, Dr. Lowell said:

It is neither well for the man nor his community that he be forced to wait until he is twenty-eight or more years of age before he can think of marriage. It is far better that he enter college early in life, close his work in the regular time and then launch his efforts in the world while he is still young.

Send a man to college at the age of forty and he will go to the dogs. It is very certain that the younger a man makes his beginning the better student he is.

Paris Surprised by the Democracy of King Alfonso

PARIS, May 9.—King Alfonso's stay in France came to a close today with a remarkable aerial exhibition at the St. Cyr aerodrome. While the Spanish King and his official hosts looked on one aeroplane after another ascended until the sky seem filled with them.

At Fontainbleau, a gorgeous stand, decorated with the royal colors of Spain, had been erected in which Alfonso was to have sat while the troops were reviewed. President Poincare and the French ministers, all solemn, obsequious and in evening dress, drew to one side to allow Alfonso to enter the pavilion. Instead of doing so the King ran down to the railing, placed his hands upon it and vaulted over like an athlete. Then he sat down on the grass and glued a pair of field glasses to his eyes while the cabinet ministers looked on in astonishment.

'Prfect Baby' Is Found in the East Side of New York

NEW YORK, May 9.—In New York City has been found the "perfect baby." And the baby's home is in the heart of the East Side, in the city's highest pressure population area. Furthermore, the perfect baby has never been on Fifth avenue.

The baby is a brown-eyed, chubby little boy, Abe Edelowitz, the son of a Roumanian Jewish-American. He has spent all of his three months and fifteen days in a tiny tenement apartment at No. 165 Eldridge street.

Little Abe scored 1,000 points in the Baby Health Contest, arranged by Dr. L. Emmett Holt, the children's specialist, and Robbins Gilman, head worker of the University Settlement, at Eldridge and Rivington streets where the judging is done.

The little boy has the distinction of being the first perfect baby found in the two contests held so far in New York. Hundreds of babies have been examined.

Here are the baby's measurements:

Age, three months, fifteen days; weight, 14.1 pounds; circumference of head, 16.3 inches; circumference of chest over nipple, 17 inches; circumference of abdomen, 18 inches; height, 26 inches.

When the Pilgrims ran aground off Plymouth Rock, tradition says they celebrated by winning three ball games in succession. History records no repetition of that performance. The astounding and hardly believable fact that the Pilgrims have at last repeated is herewith added to the immortal records for the first time within our personal knowledge.

It is hardly conceivable that anybody can have failed to learn this momentous occurrence by this time, but for the benefit of any who have not heard it, it is now repeated that the Boston Nationals have just finished beating the Pittsburgh Pirates 3 to 2 in ten innings, 2 to 1 in twelve innings and 6 to 1 in nine innings—three in a row. Just like that. And what is more they had a mighty good chance of stretching their string to four straight before nightfall this P. M. in the South End.

For, although they have cut loose three pitchers, Perdue, Tyler and Dickson, in the accomplishment of the above record, they still have two more live ones whose curves are yet unsullied by Pirate bats. These two are giants. There is Otto Hess, six feet-two, and of the left, or port, sided persuasion, and Bill James, six feet three, who is natural gaited. Perdue, Tyler and Dickson punched their way through without needing an alibi or a relief corps. Therefore, why not Hess or James?

In the effort to stop this merry, marauding band of Pilgrims, Fred Clarke has used Hendrix, O'Toole, Adams and Robinson in vain. These are of the best there is in Pittsburgh. It is supposed that the task of attempting to save the Smoky City from complete humiliation and degradation today will fall upon the shoulders of Howard Camnitz.

Dickson's Great Feat.

Walter R. Dickson, whose first start it was, rode over the Pirates with iron heels in the third game of this classic series. Picking your way carefully through the score card, you find that in the third inning Max Carey connected with one of Dickson's fluent but deceptive curves and belted a base hit through the stonewall Pilgrim infield—"stonewall Pilgrim infield" sounds good, doesn't it, but you would believe it if you saw it. Again, in the fourth period of this controversy, you find that Mr. Miller sneaked a single over into centre garden. There your discoveries cease. Two were all they got.

CARROLL IS BEATEN.

Ammidon defeated Carroll in the three-cushion billiard tournament at the Imperial 50 to 48.

CLEVELAND, O., May 9.—It has been said hundreds of times that the team that "gets the breaks" in baseball wins the games and the pennants. That was the case with the Boston Red Sox last year. Jake Stahl's boys won games, the American League pennant and the world's championship, largely because Stahl was able to keep his team fit and they got the "breaks."

Yesterday the break made its appearance in the shape of a tip foul, a measly tip foul it might be said, but it was in favor of the Naps instead of the Red Sox. That measly foul tip was enough to spell victory for Manager Birmingham and company.

"Breaks" Aid Cleveland.

The foul made its appearance in the sixth inning, and up to the very moment that it appeared the Red Sox looked like winners. The sixth opened with the score 2 to 0 against the Naps. Johnston singled to right. Then break number one for the Naps made its appearance. Neal Ball juggled Chapman's grounder just long enough to allow Johnston to reach second and Chapman first safely.

No Ill Feeling Shown.

None of the ill feeling that was prevalent throughout Wednesday's game was manifest yesterday. The players of both teams went about their business and there were no run ins of any kind.

For the third game of the series today, Fred Blanding will be sent against the Red Sox while either Ray Collins or Joe Wood will face the Naps. It is probable that Steve Yerkes will get back in the game at second.

This Week We Mean to Show What Extraordinary Values We Put Into

Filene Men's Suits at $16

NO need to employ superlatives in describing these suits. The suits themselves are superlative, and they SAY SO, most emphatically and convincingly, to all men who come within reach of their message.

No need to go into detailed specifications as to fabrics and styles. The assemblage embraces every right kind of cloth and a variety of models that leaves nothing to be desired.

We Put Just as Much Care and Thought Into the Making of Filene $16 Suits as Into Our Higher-Priced Garments

At first blush that may sound preposterous. But it is one of the Filene ways of doing business. We stand right back of everything sold in this store, no matter how little the price.

Women have realized this for a good many years. Men are finding it out at a very satisfactory rate.

Why not drop in THIS WEEK and get acquainted with Filene methods?

Hop on the escalator, a step inside the Washington street doors, and in a twinkling you will find yourself in Boston's modern clothes shop for Men, where the watchword is THE KIND OF ECONOMY THAT IS IMPOSSIBLE WITHOUT EXTRAORDINARY QUALITY.

Men's Suits	Full-Lined or Quarter-Lined	$16 to $45
Young Men's Suits	In Striking New Styles	$15 to $30
Light-Weight Overcoats	Wide Variety	$16 to $40

Second floor, Washington Street side, reached by escalator—same floor with men's non-tip, sanitary barber shop with its nine chairs.

A MYSTERIOUS LETTER

READ the letter reproduced, in part, below. It's the connecting link between a gigantic purchase of 7,500 yards of $40 to $60 fancy woolens and one of the most remarkable sales of hand-tailored suits ever conceived by even the most economical buyer of made-to-measure clothes.

The writer of this letter, a prominent Fifth Avenue jobber in high-grade imported woolens, from whom we purchased these ultra-fashionable suitings, only met our spot cash offer by our agreeing not to divulge his name or the terms upon which this purchase was made in our advertisements. His letter, however, is on file at our store and may be seen by the "sceptical" upon request. A wonderful assortment of nobby paterns in a wide variety of exclusive weaves is comprised in this shipment. While fancy crashes, worsteds, thibets and cassimeres prevail, there are more conservative fabrics for middle-aged and elderly gentlemen and a swell line of outing flannels for the sportsman or tourist.

Every yard of cloth in this great purchase and sale is of the purest wool, and every pattern was selected by an expert especially for the Fifth Avenue merchant tailoring trade.

HOT LINERS RIGHT OFF THE BAT

By RILEY.

"SAY, when I get my $4,000 out of this year's world's championship, I'm going to buy—" began "Hub" Perdue this morning out in Walpole street.

"Oh, quit your kidding," interrupted Bill Sweeney. "What if the Athletics beat us out and we only get $2,800 apiece?"

• • •

WALTER R. DICKSON, who occupies a pedestal in today's Hall of Fame, is a cotton salesman from Mississippi. His boss, George Stallings, is a cotton planter in Georgia. They have been so busy talking cotton on the Pilgrim bench that Stallings probably never thought to use Dickson on the pitching hill until yesterday. The scorers had almost forgotten that Dickson, who joined the team last year, was still on Stallings' payroll until they saw him out on the firing line. Dickson is an unexpected acquisition to the ranks of the winning Pilgrim pitchers.

• • •

BY holding the Pirates to two singles in nine innings, Dickson duplicates Perdue's performance of the opening day in New York, when the Giants combed "Hub" for but two safeties. The Pilgrims now have five flingers who have demonstrated that, with capable support, they can win ball games from the best of them. The other four are Perdue, Tyler, James and Hess.

• • •

THAT the Pilgrims are capable of giving winning support has been proved by the three Pittsburgh games. They have made but three errors in the three contests. They have made no serious blunders in fact. No more prolonged exhibition of snappy, persistent and brilliant baseball has been played on either Boston park than the Na[illegible]tionals have displayed in the Pittsburgh series.

• • •

THE chief weakness of the Pilgrims in the early games was back of the bat. No more convincing tribute has been paid to the importance of the catcher in baseball than the dismal results of the Pilgrim games when the pitchers were "going good," the team was hitting fairly and fielding well enough to win. A base on balls to the adversary was almost equivalent to a home run. When Bert Whaling rounded into form Bill Rariden began to ginger up, and the Pittsburg games have been the opposite to the travesties that were beginning to be a custom in the South End.

• • •

FOR two days not a solitary extra base hit has been made at South End park. A stiff breeze blowing across the field towards the batter is probably responsible for this, although the pitching has been uniformly good, too.

• • •

SUCCESSFUL battery work and snappy play by some of the youngsters, particularly Maranville, has injected pepper into the old timers of the Pilgrims. Devlin has been playing a brilliant game at third. He and Titus appeared among the base stealers yesterday. Bill Sweeney is on his toes and played like a streak of lightning yesterday. The team stole seven bases yesterday. Myers annexed three, all in one inning—pilfering second, third and home all in a row.

• • •

IF they call Maranville "the rabbit" they'll have to call the [illegible] that bats after him the [illegible] [illegible] was a [illegible] [illegible] Myers [illegible] to the plate [illegible] is a hard one for the opposing pitchers to solve. First they have to adjust their aim to the shortest man in the game, and then immediately change their delivery to fit one of the tallest men in all baseball.

• • •

MYERS' height was valuable in the first inning. Byrne hit a short [illegible] along the third base line. Dickson [illegible] away over Myers' head, but the latter caught it with one hand extended above him and without taking his feet off the sack. Had he leaped, Byrne would have been safe.

• • •

BYRNE nearly knocked Maranville down with a drive close to third base in the sixth, but "the rabbit" clung to the ball and threw the runner out. Maranville made another sizzling play when he ran past second for Adams' bounder in the fifth and threw straight to first with the same motion and without pulling up.

• • •

BILL SWEENEY pulled off a lightning stop and throw of an erratic bounder off Dickson's glove in the seventh, and in the eighth ran away in front of first base to pick up Wilson's slow belt, which he shot to Dickson, covering first, with amazing rapidity and accuracy. It was a play rarely made by a second baseman and pitcher in combination.

• • •

DEVLIN contributed a remarkable running stop in shortfield to throw out Wagner in the ninth. Honus' drive looked like a base hit.

• • •

BEFORE you blame the Red Sox for their part in the fracas at Cleveland Wednesday, think of this. Leonard, whom Graney tried to bamboozle by a dash to the plate, while he was conferring with Carrigan on the pitcher's path, is [illegible] years old, pitching his first year in the big leagues. Janvrin, who was knocked down at second by Carlson, is twenty, and a very quiet and even tempered lad, also in his first year in the majors. Foster, who [illegible] Olson at first, is twenty-two, inoffensive and reserved, and also pitching for the first year in big company. The three Cleveland men mentioned are old timers. The three Boston lads are "kids."

• • •

IT looks to the writer, through a telescope, like a preconcerted effort by the Naps to take advantage of the kids on Stahl's payroll, using [illegible] rough house tactics to upset their [illegible] [illegible] youngsters were victims. Can [illegible] blame Carrigan for being raw rough in [illegible] off [illegible] and putting the ball on him; or "Honus" Wagner for kicking himself off the [illegible] by objecting to the [illegible] affair, or "Long Leslie" Nunamaker for "handing it to" Olson later for his collision with Foster in which the Sox say Olson struck Foster with his fist when the pitcher covered first base to retire Olson in the eighth?

STEVE KENNEDY AND JOE EAGAN IN DRAW BOUT

By JACK CONWAY.

Lawrence fight "fans" are today clamoring for another bout between Steve Kennedy and Joe Eagan. These two sturdy lightweights clashed in a twelve-round contest before the Unity Club in Lawrence last night and when the smoke of the battle had blown over the affair was declared a draw by Referee Jerry Moore of the West End. It was a good decision and the only one which could have been rendered with fairness to the two battlers.

The bout was one of the best lightweight battles witnessed in a New England ring for a number of months. The rivals were well matched and experienced no letup from the time that the bell sounded at the opening of the first round until the whirl came to a close.

Eagan hit the harder punches, but Kennedy was very aggressive and used his left hand to good advantage. He came strong during the last two rounds when he landed some solid punches.

The men started out at a fast pace in the opening round. Kennedy appeared to be a little bit nervous but he settled down after a short while and was soon fighting in fine style.

Eagan was cool, collected and seemed at ease. He was in excellent condition and had no fear of losing to Kennedy. Kennedy did some good work with his left hand during the first part of the bout, but he was forced to give ground on several occasions when Eagan rocked him with a short, snappy left jolt which had a tremendous amount of force behind it.

In the seventh stanza Joe landed two left jolts in rapid succession and almost sent the Lawrence lad to the mat, but he cleverly regained his balance and danced merrily out of harm's way.

By the time that the ninth round had arrived Eagan had gained a slight lead. Kennedy, however, did some slashing work in the latter part of the "go" and about evened things up. The South Boston boy had a very slight shade but it was not sufficient to entitle him to the decision.

AMATEUR BOUTS AT DORCHESTER CLUB

There will be an amateur boxing tournament at the Dorchester Club this evening. Bouts will be held at 108, 115 and 125 pounds. A number of good boxers have entered the tourney and some slashing bouts are expected.

PITTSBURGH IS PLAYING POOR GAME

FRED CLARKE'S TEAM DOES NOT SHOW LIKE CHAMPIONS

By A. H. C. MITCHELL

WHEN a ball team isn't batting it is a bad looking team. Or, when the other fellows are scoring runs, the team on the defence looks bad. Such is the situation in the Pittsburgh camp these days. The Pirates may win this afternoon, but whether they do or not, the fact remains they look mighty far from being a championship organization.

AND yet this Pittsburgh team is the one the wise ones, the experts, the "fans," the know-it-alls, picked to win the National pennant in 1913. Of course, the team may yet come to the front and on "dope" it should finish in the first division but it cannot hope to improve until it shows better batting and more "pep" than it has shown in Boston thus far in the series.

PITTSBURGH is supposed to be well heeled for pitchers, and certainly those who have worked against Boston have shown first class. Even Adams, who was beaten 6 to 1 yesterday, pitched good ball. He had the worst of the breaks, and there were some fatal "boots" behind him. Several hits bounded past second base and rolled out to centre field. On the other hand, most of Pittsburgh's ground hits went where the Boston fielders could get to them. When an infield hit goes safe, unless it is a very hard hit ball, it is a matter of luck, say what you will.

BUT, at that, all is not right with a team that has to put in a pinch hitter in place of the third baseman on the list as the Pittsburgh team did on Wednesday, when some one went in to bat for Booe toward the last of the game. It was not a case of a left handed batter facing a left-handed pitcher, for Booe is a right-handed batter. Manager Clarke simply did not have the confidence in Booe's ability to drive in a run, so he sent up a pincher. Here is a team that is supposed to be a contender for National League honors. One would think that is was well fortified in the matter of regulars and that the men the manager picked to play centre field while he leaves a guy like Artie Hofman on the bench, ought to be good enough to take his regular turn at the bat and not be forced to give way to a pinch hitter at a critical moment of the game.

THE breaks of the game were all in favor of the home team yesterday. This is simply stating a fact and is not intended to take any credit away from Stallings' men for their third victory over the Pirates. It simply gets down to the old saw that in order to win ball games a team must have luck. No team on earth can win a championship without the luck of the game. Unless the Red Sox have it, unless the Athletics have it, unless the Giants or the Cubs or any other team has it, that team will have no chance to fight for world's series money.

STALLINGS' men have shown splendid ball in the past few days. In fact, they have played very few poor games since the season started. They have been weak in hitting, and that made them look worse than they really are.

IT is a pleasure to see them shift their attack. The hit and run was successfully worked in yesterday's game. The drilling that Stallings gave them on the Southern trip is beginning to show good results. With the good pitching that has prevailed in the Boston camp in the past two weeks, and with the players taking advantage of their openings on the offence, they may be expected to win many more games. But don't forget the team must have its share of the "breaks" as well.

WALTER DICKSON was very successful against the Pirates last season, and Stallings was wise in putting him in against the enemy yesterday. Dickson was forced by Kling to warm up so much last year that he could not do himself justice when he was called upon to take his regular turn in the box.

WITHIN THE LAW

By MARVIN DANA from the Play of BAYARD VEILLER

[illegible]

PART I.

It was the [illegible]

[illegible] Mary [illegible] it was a pretty [illegible] wasn't it? [illegible] was to get [illegible] the marked money? Then, my simple young friend, we would have been arrested very neatly indeed—for blackmail."

Aggie's innocent eyes rounded in amazed consternation, which was not at all assumed.

"Gee" she cried "That would have been fierce! And now?" she questioned apprehensively.

Mary's answer repudiated any possibility of fear.

"And now," she explained contentedly "he really will go to our lawyer. There he will pay over that same marked money. Then, he will get the letters he wants so much. And, just because it's a strictly business transaction between two lawyers, with everything done according to legal ethics——"

"What's legal ethics?" Aggie demanded impetuously. "They sound some tasty!" With the comment, she dropped weakly into a chair.

Mary laughed in care-free enjoyment as well she might after winning the victory in such a battle of wits.

"Oh," she said, happily, "you just get [illegible]

Inside the Law

Mary reviewed the case succinctly for [illegible] enment.

[illegible]

"He might have ruined my life!"

Mary continued without giving much attention to [illegible]

"If you had asked him for all this money for the return of his letters, it would have been blackmail, and we'd have gone to jail in all human probability. But we did no such thing—no indeed! What we did wasn't anything like that in the eyes of the law. What we did was [illegible] have your lawyer [illegible] with a suit for damages for breach of promise of marriage for the sum of ten thousand dollars. Then, his lawyer appears in behalf of General Hastings and there follow a number of conferences between the legal representatives of the opposing parties. By means of these conferences, the two legal gentlemen run up very respectable bills of expense. In the end, we get our ten thousand dollars, and the flighty old General gets back his letters. . . . My dear," Mary concluded vaingloriously, "we're inside the law, and so we're perfectly safe. And there you are!"

MARY remained in joyous spirits after her victorious matching of brains against a lawyer of high standing in his profession. For the time being, conscience was muted by gratified ambition. Her thoughts just then were far from the miseries of the past, with their evil train of consequences in the present. But that past was soon to be recalled to her with a vividness most terrible.

She had entered the telephone-booth which she had caused to be installed out of an extra closet of her bedroom for the sake of greater privacy on occasion, and it was during her absence from the drawing room that Garson again came into the apartment, seeking her. On being told by Aggie as to Mary's whereabouts, he sat down to await her return, listening without much interest to the chatter of the adventuress. . . . It was just then that the maid appeared.

A Visitor.

"There's a girl wants to see Miss Turner," she explained.

The irrepressible Aggie put on her most finically elegant air.

"Has she a card?" she inquired haughtily, while the maid tittered appreciation.

"No," was the answer. "But she says it's important. I guess the poor thing's in hard luck, from the look of her," the kindly Fannie added.

"Oh, then she'll be welcome of course," Aggie declared, and Garson nodded in acquiescence. "Tell her to come in and wait, Fannie. Miss Turner will be here right away." She turned to Garson as the maid left the room. "Mary sure is an easy boob," she remarked, cheerfully. "Boss [illegible] soft heart!"

A curiously gentle smile of appreciation softened the features of the forger's face as he again nodded assent.

"We might just as well pipe off the skirt before Mary gets here," Aggie suggested with eagerness.

A minute later, a girl perhaps twenty [illegible] swift furtive glance [illegible]. Her whole appearance was that of [illegible] black gown, the [illegible] of her face, proclaimed the abject misery of her state.

Aggie, who was not exuberant in her sympathies for any one other than herself, [illegible] the newcomer with a [illegible], modulated in her [illegible]

"[illegible] come [illegible] please?" she [illegible]

The [illegible] girl shot another veiled [illegible] of the speaker.

"Are you Miss Turner?" she asked, in [illegible] nervous dismay.

"Really, I [illegible] very sorry," Aggie re[illegible] "I am only her com[illegible] Miss Agnes Lynch. But Miss Turner [illegible] back any minute now."

"[illegible] wait?" came the timid question.

"Certainly," Aggie answered, hospitably. "Please sit down."

Had Been in Prison

As the girl obediently sank down on the nearest chair, Garson addressed her sharply, so that the visitor started uneasily [illegible] unexpected sound.

"You [illegible] know Miss Turner?"

"[illegible] came the faint reply.

"Then what do you want to see her about?"

There was a brief pause before the girl could pick up courage enough for an answer. Then it was spoken confusedly, almost in a whisper.

"She once helped a girl friend of mine, and I thought - I thought——"

"You thought she might help you," Garson interrupted.

But Aggie, too, possessed some perceptive powers, despite the fact that she preferred to use them little in ordinary affairs.

"You have been in stir—prison, I mean." She hastily corrected the lapse into underworld slang.

Came a distressed muttering of assent from the girl.

"How sad!" Aggie remarked, in a voice of shocked pity for one so inconceivably unfortunate. "How very, very sad!"

This ingenuous method of diversion was put to an end by the entrance of Mary, who stopped short on seeing the limp figure huddled in the chair.

"A visitor, Agnes?" she inquired.

At the sound of her voice, and before Aggie could hit on a fittingly elegant form of reply, the girl looked up. And now, for the first time, she spoke with some degree of energy, albeit there was a sinister undertone in the husky voice.

"You're Miss Turner?" she questioned.

"Yes," Mary said, simply. Her words rang kindly; and she smiled encouragement.

A gasp burst from the white lips of the girl and she cowered as one stricken physically.

"Mary Turner! Oh, my God! I——" She hid her face within her arms and sat bent until her head rested on her knees in an abasement of misery.

Vaguely startled by the hysterical outburst from the girl, Mary's immediate thought was that here was a pitiful instance of one suffering from starvation.

"Joe," she directed rapidly, "have Fannie bring a glass of milk with an egg and a little brandy in it, right away."

"Yes, I'm Starving!"

The girl in the chair [illegible] shaking soundlessly under the stress of her emotions. A few disjointed phrases fell from her quivering lips.

"I didn't know—oh, I couldn't!"

"Don't try to talk just now," Mary warned, reassuringly. "Wait until you've had something to eat."

Aggie, who had observed developments closely, now lifted her voice in tardy lamentations over her own stupidity. There was no affectation of the fine lady in her self reproach.

"Was the poor [illegible]" she exclaimed. "And [illegible] the dope on her. Ain't [illegible]"

The girl regained [illegible] of self-control, and showed something of forlorn dignity.

"Yes," she said [illegible] "I'm starving."

Mary regarded the afflicted creature with that sympathy born only of experience.

"Yes," she said so[illegible] "I understand." Then she spoke to [illegible] "Take her to my room, and let her rest there for a while. Have her drink [illegible] milk slowly, and then lie down for a few minutes anyhow."

Aggie obeyed with an air of bustling activity.

"Sure, I will!" she declared. She went to the girl and helped her to stand up. "We'll fix you out all right," she said, comfortingly. "Come along with me. . . . Hungry! Gee, but that's tough!"

Half an hour afterward, while Mary was at her desk, giving part of her attention to Joe Garson, who sat near, and part to a rather formidable pile of neatly arranged papers, Aggie reported with her charge, who, though still shambling of gait, and stooping, showed by some faint color in her face and an increased steadiness of bearing that the food had already strengthened her much.

"She would come," Aggie explained. "I thought she ought to rest for a while longer anyhow." She half shoved the girl into a chair opposite the desk, in an absurd travesty on the maternal manner.

"I'm all right, I tell you," came the querulous protest.

Helen Morris

Whereupon Aggie gave over the uncongenial task of mothering, and settled herself comfortably in a chair, with her legs merely crossed as a compromise between ease and propriety.

"Are you quite sure?" Mary said to the girl. And then, as the other nodded in assent, she spoke with a compelling kindliness. "Then you must tell us all about it—this trouble of yours, you know. What is your name?"

Once again the girl had recourse to the swift, searching, furtive glance, but her voice was colorless as she replied, listlessly:

"Helen Morris."

Mary regarded the girl with an expression that was inscrutable when she spoke again.

"I don't have to ask if you have been in prison," she said gravely. "Your face shows it."

"I—I came out—three months ago," was the halting admission.

Mary watched the shrinking figure reflectively for a long minute before she spoke again. Then there was a deeper resonance in her voice.

"And you'd made up your mind to go straight?"

"Yes." The word was a whisper.

"You were going to do what the chaplain had told you," Mary went on in a voice vibrant with varied emotions. "You were going to start all over again, weren't you? You were going to begin a new life, weren't you?" The bent head of the girl bent still lower in assent. There came a cynical note into Mary's utterance now. "It doesn't work very well, does it?" she asked, bitterly.

The girl gave sullen agreement.

"No," she said dully; "I'm whipped."

Mary's manner changed on the instant. She spoke cheerfully for the first time.

"Well, then," she questioned, "how would you like to work with us?"

The girl looked up for a second with another of her fleeting, stealthy glances.

"You—you mean that——?"

Mary explained her intention in the matter very explicitly. Her voice grew boastful.

"Our kind of work pays well when you know how. Look at us."

Disregarded Interruption

Aggie welcomed the opportunity for speech, too long delayed.

"Hats from Joseph's, gowns from Lucile's, and cracked ice from Tiffany's. But it ain't ladylike to wear it," she concluded with a reproachful glance at her mentor.

Mary disregarded the frivolous interruption, and went on speaking to the girl, and now there was something pleasantly cajoling in her manner.

"Suppose I should stake you for the present, and put you in with a good crowd. All you would have to do would be to answer advertisements for servant girls. I will see that you have the best of references. Then, when you get in with the right people, you will open the front door some night and let in the gang. Of course, you will make a get-away when they do, and get your bit as well."

There flashed still another of the swift, sly glances, and the lips of the girl parted as if she would speak. But she did not, only her head sagged even lower on her breast, and the shrunken form grew yet more shrunken. Mary, watching closely, saw these signs, and in the same instant [illegible] change came over her. Where before there had been an underlying suggestion of hardness there was now a womanly warmth of genuine sympathy.

"It doesn't suit you," she said, very softly. "Good! I was in hopes it wouldn't. So, here's another plan." Her voice had become very winning. "Suppose you could go West—some place where you would have a fair chance, with money enough so you could live like a human being till you got a start?"

There came a tensing of the relaxed form and the head lifted a little so that the girl could look at her questioner. And [illegible] time, the glance, though of the briefest, was less furtive.

briefest, was less furtive

"I will give you a chance," Mary said simply, "if you really want it."

QUIT CALOMEL!

Thousands Are Turning from This Dangerous Drug.

A Safe Vegetable Substitute Is Olive Tablets for the Liver.

Dr. F. M. Edwards, a prominent physician of Ohio, has discovered a new laxative and liver toner in a combination of vegetable materials, mixed with olive oil, which is, in effect, almost exactly like the old and untrustworthy calomel, except that there are none of the bad after effects of calomel.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel, though he recognized its value along with its dangers.

His distrust of the uncertain drug eventually started him years ago toward experiments with the view of discovering a substitute, and he is today in possession of the long sought-for combination, which is in the shape of a little sugar-coated, olive oil colored tablet.

The results of 17 years' experience and practice are embodied in these marvelous little tablets.

They are called Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They oil the bowels, and their effect on the liver has been the means of relief to many of Dr. Edwards' regular patients as well as to thousands of others who have suffered and were afraid of calomel.

They are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural [illegible] which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of harmful impurities. 10c and 25c per box.

Why She Worried

THERE was evidently something on Mrs. Nerviss' mind. For several days she had been very much preoccupied, and finally Nerviss himself, fearful that he might in some way have been the cause of it, made certain inquiries designed to clear up the situation.

"I hope you didn't mind my coming in so late from the club last Tuesday night, Maria," he said.

"Not at all, James, dear," the good lady answered.

Nerviss drew a deep sigh of relief.

"Then what is the matter with you, Maria?" he demanded. "You can't deceive me. You are worrying about something."

"I certainly am," said the lady, her voice tremulous. "I am very much worried. Do you think the people at our bank are honest, James?"

"Why, certainly," laughed Nerviss. "Whatever made you think they were not?"

"Well, something very strange has happened lately," said Mrs. Nerviss, "and I think you ought to look into it. You know you have been giving me my allowance lately in bills, and I have been depositing them at the bank?"

"Yes, I am aware of that," said Nerviss.

"Well, somehow or other I don't like the looks of that receiving teller, James," said the lady, "and so, for the past three weeks I have been putting my initials on every bill deposited up in one corner, and yesterday Mr. Cleaver, the butcher, in cashing a check for me handed one of those marked notes!"

"Well, suppose he did?" demanded Nerviss. "What of it?"

"What of it?" echoed Mrs. Nerviss, "What of it? Doesn't that prove that those bank people are letting other people use my money?"

It was at this point that Nerviss was attacked by a violent spasm of coughing, which, in her description of it to the doctor, Mrs. Nerviss declared was so like a laugh that at first she believed her husband had suddenly thought of something funny.

The Social Calendar

THE marriage of Miss Madeleine T Brewer of Milton, a Vincent Club girl, to Byam Whitney of Brookline, to be celebrated at noon tomorrow in the Unitarian Church, Milton, is one of the important social events of the season. The bride has been bridesmaid at six weddings this year. She is the second daughter of Joseph Brewer, the shipping merchant, and a leader in Boston's younger smart set. Mr. Whitney is a Harvard graduate, the son of Mrs. Charles L. B. Whitney of Gardner road, Brookline.

An important event scheduled for tomorrow is the peace centennial banquet at the Hotel Somerset, when former Governor John D. Long will be toastmaster. Foreign delegates to the International Peace Conference will be present from Great Britain, Canada, Newfoundland and Australia, while Ghent, Belgium, where the treaty ending the War of 1812 was signed, will have two representatives in attendance.

A home wedding of Boston society interest planned for tomorrow is that of Miss Natalie Whiting, older daughter of Mrs. William Sawin Whiting of No. 326 Beacon street, Back Bay, to Xavier Audibert of New York city. The ceremony, which will be private, will be performed by the Rev. Dr. Supple, an intimate friend of the bride.

The Browning Whist Club will have a dinner at 6 30 p. m. tomorrow at the Thorndike Hotel.

A noon banquet will be served in the Lexington Town Hall tomorrow as a feature of the celebration of the historic town's 200th anniversary of incorporation. Governor Foss and staff will be the guests of honor.

The English High School class of 1873 celebrates its fortieth anniversary tomorrow afternoon and evening. The program includes a visit to the Oakley Country Club, Watertown, followed by a dinner at Young's Hotel.

The Society for Higher Education holds its final gathering of the season in Huntington Chambers tomorrow evening, when "Mrs. Oakley's Telephone" will be presented by amateur dramatic talent.

Society Happenings Tomorrow

Whitney-Brewer wedding, Unitarian Church, Milton, 12 m.

"Dick, the Dreamer," charity show, Boston Opera House, afternoon.

Audibert-Whiting wedding, No. 326 Beacon street, 3:30 p. m.

Peace Centennial banquet, Hotel Somerset, evening.

A Good Plan

On a cold, wet night everyone likes to see a blazing fire, but this generally means heavy coal bills. A good plan is to place a quantity of chalk at the back of each grate, in equal proportion to the coals. This throws out a great heat and lasts quite a long time. It always pays in the end to buy good coal, for not only does it make a clearer fire, but it leaves fewer ashes. A handful of common salt thrown into the fire occasionally makes a cheerful blaze and lessens the consumption of the coal.

Safe Hints

Velveteen which has served its purpose as a dress or blouse should be preserved and made into polishing cloth. In this connection velveteen is almost as good as a chamois leather, and can not only be used for obtaining a fine polish on satinwood and mahogany furniture but as a means of brightening silver and plated goods. When soiled the velveteen may be successfully cleaned by washing it in a soapy lather.

Invalids who dislike the flavor of meat extracts will be able to take it if a teaspoonful or so is added to a cupful of boiling milk. The milk disguises the taste of the meat extract. A small quantity of this mixture taken when there is a feeling of exhaustion will prove an admirable restorative.

Very few home laundresses are aware of the fact that blankets, when they have been washed and dried thoroughly, should be well beaten with an ordinary carpet beater. This has the effect of making the wool light and soft and giving the blankets a new and fresh appearance.

Woman and Her Ways

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE

IT keeps the women pretty busy saying "Don't" to the children, and remarking to each other: "Now, isn't that just like a man?"

"I earn all I get" is the expression one most often hears from a married woman.

The trouble is that after a woman is married she begins to confuse the role of guardian angel with that of detective.

When a young woman spends money freely, two choruses go up: One in the voices of young women, "How generous!" and one in the voices of old women, "How foolish!"

No woman can manage a pathetic look when her hat is on crooked.

When a woman has an undesirable guest, she can take her medicine with a more pleased expression than anybody else on earth.

The trouble is that no one ever tells a woman the truth but her husband, and she thinks he can't speak it.

Every woman spoils her sons, and believes her husband would have been a better man if his mother hadn't spoiled him.

Compliment a girl in her mother's presence, and her mother will say: "Yes, she is a good girl; I have tried to teach her all I know."

When a woman goes shopping, she has a list of what she wants somewhere about her person, and can never find it.

The women have a doubtful way of paying another woman a compliment. "She is attractive," they will say, "from a man's point of view."

It is a rare wife who does not try to show her authority over her husband when other women are present.

Nothing pleases a woman quite so well as to look so sweet some man wants to kiss her, and then abuse him for his impudence.

There is only one thing that pleases a woman more than to be referred to as a dove, and that is hear man referred to as a hawk.

A woman does not want much in the world, but she wants that on cut glass with an engraved card tied to it.

"This," a wife will say with indignation, "is positively the last straw." Then she goes on accumulating more as long as her husband lives until she has quite a good-sized haystack.

PAT'S PHILOSOPHY

Pat and Mike were crossing the river on a ferryboat. They were watching intently a big dredging barge that was sending its mammoth scoops under the water and bringing up tons of mud.

"Pat," says Mike, "wouldn't yez loike to be a-workin' over there on that mud-digger?"

"Yis," says Pat, "but, begorra, Oi'd hate to be one of the fellows under the water that's fillin' up thim shovels."

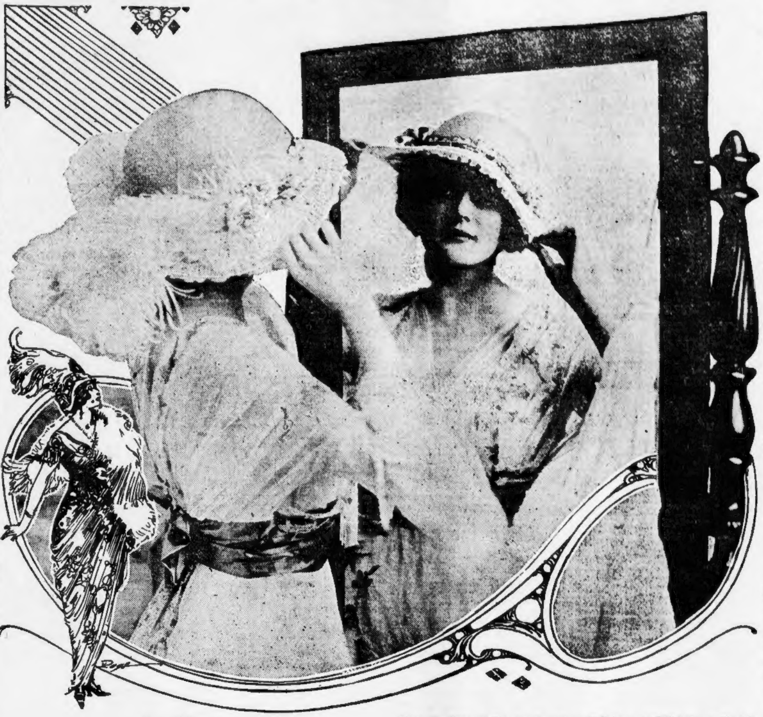
A Summer Hat

By OLIVETTE



By Olivette

THIS combination of leghorn and lace is particularly fetching for wear with dainty Summer gowns. The wide lace is shirred on four wires and just falls beyond the edge of the hat with becoming softness.

A quaint touch is added by the black-edged taffeta ribbon that outlines the base of the crown and is tied in a trefoil bow at the left of the front.

Two great full-blown yellow-hearted roses are placed far back on the right side and from each starts a full white ostrich plume falling softly toward the shoulder.

This model shades the eyes most becomingly, and has a decidedly smart upward tilt at the back, falling away gradually toward the line of the feathers.

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

THARE was a new hired gurl caim to work at our house this week. Ma sed wen she caim that if she cud do the work satisfactory she wud give her her board & 4 $ per week. Gee, I wish I cud be a hired gurl & maik that much munny.

The naim of the hired gurl is Marie. Wen Ma called her Marie and sed That is rite, my dear, so many of the ladies I have worked for have called me Mary. I can't bear to be called Mary, she told Ma. It sounds rather ordinary, she sed.

I think Mary is a sweet naim, and Ma, but if you want to be called Marie we won't quarl about that.

Thank you, my dear, sed the hired gurl, & now we will talk over the house, so each of us can know what duties to expect from the other, she sed to Ma. If you will pardon me while I remove my wraps, she sed, I will not detain you long, my dear. Then she went out of the room.

Well, sed Ma to Pa, what do you think of that? She called me My dear! Such impertinence. I suppose she will want to go to the matinays with me. I never saw anything like it in my life.

She Was Pretty

Oh, nevver mind, sed Pa. She is reel pritty and neat looking, & that My dear simply means that she has a affeckshunate disposishun. That is a point in her favor.

Not to my way of thinking, sed Ma. I don't employ servants to show thare affeckshun. I want them to do the housework. I wonder what boarding school she went to.

Jest then Marie caim back & herd Ma's last words, & she sed Oh, I pride myself on my grammar. My mother was through the grammar room in the public schools, & I cuddent say nothing un-grammatic if I tried to, though I have saw a lot of domestics that killed the English langwidge sumthing feerce. You wud think they was standing it up to shoot it full of holes, she sed. Now, my dear, let us look oaver the house.

You must not call me "My dear," sed Ma to the new girl.

It is a kind of common expresshun, I admit, sed Marie. I got into the habit of it the last place whare I was working. The lady was rather common anyway. She always called me gurlie & she had jest lost her husband & that was what he always called her.

Well, sed Ma, you needn't bother calling me any pet names. Go ahedd now and get the breakfust things off the tabel & wash everything up. I usually dust the parlor myself.

I think you hurt her feelings, sed Pa to Ma after Marie had went out into the kitchen. I am almost sure, sed Pa, that I noticed her lips quivering. You doant meen to say so, sed Ma. Well, you needn't mind noticing her lips so much. Go along to the offis now & I will taik care of my own servant without any help or advice from you.

That nite wen Pa caim hoam to dinner the first thing Pa sed was How is the new servant?

Too Talkative

I guess she is going to be satisfactory, sed Ma. She seems willing enuff & plesant, but she is too talkativ. She has been talking to me all the morning about Wilyum Faversham & John Barrymore & Chauncey Olcott. She asked me if I didn't think Olcott was a greater actor than Edwin Booth in his best days.

Well, sed Pa, I am glad to hear it, beekaus she has a attraktiv personality & ought to be good company for us. The dinner was pritty good and Marie only called Ma My dear three times all the evening. But after dinner, wen we was in the living room, she caim in & sat down with Pa & Ma & me. This seems to be a nice, cozy room, she sed. I always like to feel at hoam ware I work. Isent yure husband distinguished looking? she sed to Ma.

I guess he is, sed Ma, altho I don't remember of anything that he evver did to distinguish hisself. Marie, she sed, in the morning I will give you a week's wages & thon you may go. I am afrade you & I will nevver be grate chums, Ma sed.

The Gold Dust Twins' Philosophy

ONE day, when Mr. Jones returned with what his weekly toil had earned, he found his little wife in tears and mood not suited to her years. It seemed the cook had bade "adieu," likewise the washerwoman, too.

Gold Dust as Strike Breaker

At first within the House of Jones there followed sad despondent moans. No hopeful word could reconcile, no honied kiss inspire a smile. "I never knew before" said she, "how horrid household cares could be."

"Upon my word I'm up at six and working still as midnight ticks. I scrub and run and wash and shine to keep the little things in line, and yet around me here and there I see undone another share. I almost feel as if I'd like to join the other ones on Strike. Some morning try it—get a mop; go through from cellar to the top, and I will venture you must see, the greater burdens fall on me."

Now Mr. Jones was passing wise and later, sprang a glad surprise. Through friends who praised the "GOLD DUST WAY," he brought a package home one day.

From tears to sunshine, Wifey now has found the good of "Knowing How" and striking servants fail to stir, the placid calm content of her.

TRADE DRAKE'S MARK PURE FOOD

Not a Matter of Height

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

ONE who has never taken heed of that very homely saying that "The greatest values are done up in the smallest parcels," writes the following letter:

"I am seventeen years of age, and in spite of my age I am very short of stature. Many people often knock me and especially young men in whose company I am, and others whom I do not know, and hardly think I would like to know for the reason they call me 'Shorty,' 'Shrimp,' 'Little One,' and other names that irritate me. This would not be so bad, but as I am very well aware of the fact that I am short it makes it twice as hard to bear when they say such things.

"I try to ignore all the remarks they make, but it is useless and I feel very heartsick over them. When I go to a dance or to a ball, I come home usually very depressed, as I know how to dance quite well, and I seldom get a good partner to dance with, as young men, as well as other young ladies, do not want to take a chance with a little girl.

"I would feel very grateful if you would advise me as to what I should do as I have a desire to be popular and jolly wherever I am, and often these remarks mar all my pleasure.

"OCTAVUS."

Not Important

My dear Octavus, popularity is not a matter of inches. If it were, many who are now the happiest, merriest, most useful, most needed and best loved of all humankind would find themselves isolated and despised. And other great, hulking, awkard, lazy creatures, slow in wit, loving and laughter, would suddenly discover popularity—a popularity that in most cases must carry its measuring string as an explanation.

In the first place, you are not through growing. While the majority no longer shoot upward after twenty is passed, there are instances of physical growth being still incomplete at thirty. You have at least three years of grace, and undoubtedly more.

I can understand what a hardship your short stature appears to you, but I ask you to forget it lest brooding over it result in a greater misfortune. It is distressing to mourn for a few inches in physical growth to such extremes that the mental and spiritual growth are retarded, and that is what I fear for you. You are looking in instead of looking out, and that unfailingly results in dwarfed mentality and a spiritual blindness.

Please try to look at it in this way: The really great people of this world have, with few exceptions, been those of small stature. The useful ones, the helpful ones, those quick to sense danger and alert in averting it, have always been those who were short, like yourself. But, unlike yourself, they wasted no time mourning about it.

If you will look among your friends you will find the busiest women the happiest, the most useful, the quickest to serve, are the smallest. In every form of life, from the lowest to the highest, the greatest dynamic power has been put in the smallest bodies. It is the bee, my dear, that is the emblem of industry, and the first sluggard the world ever knew had his eyes directed toward the ant as a rebuke and an example. If you are "helping mother" at home I will wager you are a greater help than your larger sisters. If employed in an office or store, I am not afraid to affirm that you stand a better chance of promotion, because you are quick in your movements.

Is More Tidy

A little woman is always more tidy than one who is larger. Why this is I cannot explain, but a button off, a string hanging from a petticoat, a tear in a waist are marks of a larger woman rather than of her birdlike sister.

You want to be popular, which means you want to be loved. If you are fearful of becoming a spinster because of your size, dismiss your fears. The shorter the woman the greater the likelihood that she will marry and the greater probability she will rule her home. And the woman-ruled homes are the most prosperous and happiest.

I do not like the names that are given to you, but I am sure they express the bad taste of those who apply them rather than disrespect for you. We do not tease those we dislike. We keep away from them, ignore them, and if we attack them it is in a manner that cannot be likened to teasing.

Your friends call you names because they like you. It is not the kindest way of showing regard, but youth is as cruel in showing affection as in showing hatred.

Since you cannot by fretting add to your physical growth, refuse to fret, remembering that if you continue to worry you will dwarf your spiritual and mental development.

You could serve Campbell's Tomato Soup a different way every day in the week.

Serve it as a delightful purée simply by adding hot water; or make a delicate bisque by adding hot milk according to the easy directions on the label.

Give it another pleasing effect by dropping in each plateful a few little cubes of bread toasted crisp (croutons) or add a novel flavor by a little grated cheese sprinkled over it.

You can make it extremely inviting by serving it in bouillon cups topped with whipped cream; or make it extra hearty by adding noodles or vermicelli or boiled rice.

In fact it is a half a dozen soups in one; and every one is welcome and delicious.

STOCK MARKET AND FINANCIAL NEWS

Stock markets were dull this morning and locally there was an early price recession. Within the first half hour several coppers weakened, Granby declining a point. Mellen stocks sold lower. Boston & Maine dropped 1¼ and New Haven fell a shade under 103. The latter afterwards made a partial recovery. During the first hour United Fruit rose 8 points.

Prices were irregular in New York, but fluctuations were narrow. Canadian Pacific recovered its early loss and at the end of an hour was up a fraction. Union Pacific, Reading and Amalgamated were thne showing small gains.

New York Market Hard to Move.

There was some pressure upon stocks at the opening of the New York market and what price movement there was had a downward trend. Traders said that there did not seem to be any development, whether in regard to peace abroad, crops at home or copper everywhere, which could elevate prices. London had a sluggish market because of preparations for the Whitsuntide holidays. American stocks held barely steady there.

In New York initial trading price changes were unimportant as regards most prominent issues. Montreal selling depressed Canadian Pacific. It declined more than a point in half an hour. Some traders thought the passage of the Underwood tariff bill by the House was a depressing factor. Others said that action had long been discounted.

Among early declines were Amalgamated, ⅜; Steel common, ⅜; Lehigh, ⅝; Atchison, ½; Pennsylvania, ¼; C. & O., ⅜; Erie, ⅛; California Petroleum, ¼. The specialties was the only group showing strength. American Beet Sugar advanced ⅝. Chino copper was up ⅛, while Consolidated Gas rose ⅛.

Union opened ¼ higher, but soon lost its gain and declined ¼. Southern Pacific was ¼ higher at first, but sold off. Reading began ⅜ higher, but lost its gain and declined.

The Curb was dull.

American Gold for Japan.

The New York American asks: "Is the gold now being engaged for export to Paris going to Japan in payment of the $30,000,000 loan recently raised by that nation in France?

"Announcement yesterday of the engagement of an additional $2,000,000 of gold bars for shipment to Paris on tomorrow's steamer gave this belief additional color. So far this week a total of $6,000,000 gold has been engaged for export to Paris, or a total of $29,000,000 since the beginning of this year.

"Including yesterday's engagement, aggregate exports of the yellow metal from this country since the first of the year exceed $52,000,000."

Bargains in Stocks.

A New York broker is quoted as saying: "Some idea of the bargains to be picked up in the stock market at this time can be obtained by a glance at the net earnings of some of the standard railroads. For example, for the first nine months of the current fiscal year the Atchison earned 9.47 per cent.; Norfolk & Western, 11.73 per cent.; Southern Pacific, 10.17 per cent.; Reading, 20.55 per cent.; St. Paul, 7.17 per cent.; Great Northern preferred, 13 per cent.; Lehigh Valley, 14.30 per cent.; Chicago & Northwestern, 10.89 per cent.; Northern Pacific, 9.69 per cent.; Kansas City & Southern common, 3.49 per cent.; Southern Railway common, 4.37 per cent.; Seaboard Air Line preferred, 6.40 per cent., and the Missouri Pacific turned a deficit of 2.88 per cent. into a profit of 1.64 per cent.

London Copper Quotations.

The London copper warrants market was firm with spot and futures closing 10s. higher. Sales were 300 tons of spot and 1,000 of futures.

A good demand for the metal from consumers is reported there, and early delivery copper is scarce. In New York it is believed that the big decrease in surplus stocks for April, as reported by the Producers' Association, will result soon in an advance in the price of electrolytic to 16 cents a pound.

A Salt Lake special dispatch quotes D. C. Jackling as saying:

> Prospects for the copper industry never were better. The reserve supply of copper is constantly decreasing, which means that we can't mine it fast enough to supply the demand. The lead and zinc industries are by some regarded with apprehension on account of the attitude of the present administration toward the tariff, but the taking off of the tariff is not going to kill or seriously cripple those industries, they are too big."

The Chino Copper Company reports for the quarter ending with March net profits of $807,823, which compares with $682,911 for the corresponding period last year.

Financial News in Brief.

Chesapeake & Ohio directors will meet May 15 for dividend action and Chairman Frank Trumbell says there is no reason to modify the April statement that there is no reason for reducing the dividend rate, which is 5 per cent. per annum.

The Prairie Oil and Gas Company has issued a second balance sheet which gives comparisons of conditions, as of December 31, 1912, and December 31, 1911. Total assets show an increase of $9,080,718, of which $1,800,587 is cash gain, and $9,054,076 represents additions to merchandise.

April shipments of anthracite amounted to 5,906,189 tons, as against 266,825 tons last year, when there was a suspension of mining. In April, 1911, shipments totalled 5,804,915 tons, and in 1910 they were 6,224,396 tons. The amount of coal on hand at tidewater shipping ports decreased 225,872 tons during April.

The General Asphalt Company reports for 1912 business totalling $14,995,323 and net earnings of $1,343,698. After deductions to cover maintenance costs above the reserve for this purpose, there was left a net gain to surplus of $1,120,924, as compared with $818,785 for 1911. The net gain to surplus amounts to 8.5 per cent. on the preferred stock. After paying the full 5 per cent. dividend on the $657,000 of preferred, there was earned a balance of 4.7 per cent. on the common stock.

The United States Steel Corporation has been turning out steel at the rate of about 13,500,000 tons a year for several months. It is now expected that the April report as to unfilled tonnage will show a decrease of about 250,000 tons.

The Iron Age estimates the April production of pig iron at 2,752,701 tons, or at the rate of 33,402,035 a year.

The New York sub-treasury lost $1,053,000 to the banks yesterday, and since Friday has gained $5,303,000.

Alaska Gold shares have been admitted for quotation in the unlisted department of the Boston Stock Exchange. Of the 750,000 shares of the company's authorized stock, 39,420 are being held under option at par, which is $10, until July 1 next.

RAISE RATE, AID TRADE--CLAFLIN

By B. C. FORBES.

John Claflin, president of the New York Chamber of Commerce and the "Dry Goods King" of the United States, said to me yesterday:

The railroads are thoroughly entitled to the 5 per cent. increase in freight rates which they are about to seek.

I sincerely hope the Interstate Commerce Commission will grant their application.

I believe the result would be beneficial not only to the railroads, but to the country as a whole, including merchants.

Incidentally, Mr. Claflin took occasion to express cordial approval of the articles appearing on the Business Page of the American. He said:

> I have read many of them and have had many people talk to me about them. I find the views expressed most reasonable and I am sure they are doing the country a great deal of good.

Mr. Claflin is a many-sided man—able, broad-minded, honest, successful.

As a merchant he is president of the H. B. Claflin Company, founded by his father, and today the largest dry goods jobbing house in America, president of the important Associated Merchants' Company, and president of the $50,000,000 United Dry Goods Company. The operations of these various enterprises cover the Union.

He is an ardent believer in and a high authority on insurance. His judgment is sought on all financial and investment transactions of the New York Life Insurance Company, on whose finance committee he is the guiding spirit. He is a director, or trustee, also, of the Home Insurance Company, the German-American Insurance Company, the Commercial Union Assurance Company, Limited, of London, the Commercial Union Fire Insurance Company of New York, the German Alliance Insurance Company, and the Palatine Insurance Company.

In the banking world he is also an influential figure. He is on the board of the United States Trust Company, the Astor Trust Company, the National Bank of Commerce and the Morristown Trust Company, a vigorous institution established a few years ago in his home town.

Mr. Claflin is not on the directorate of a single railroad. His advocacy of better treatment of the railroads, therefore, is not prompted by the self interest that may be supposed to actuate the railroads that are preparing an appeal to the Commerce Commission for a slight increase in freight schedules.

"Can merchants afford to pay increased charges?"

Mr. Claflin not only declares they can, but gives facts and figures to show how he has based his conclusion. He went into the subject very fully last time the railroads sought (and were denied) relief.

"Let us take," he said, "a retail business of moderate size, say a million dollars annually in sales, situated perhaps between the Mississippi River and the Rocky Mountains. Such a business would pay probably about $25,000 a year in freight and express charges."

A 5 per cent. increase in freight charges would mean $1,250.

In what way would the merchant be a gainer? How would he be recouped for this additional $1,250 expense upon his $1,000,000 sales? Mr. Claflin's answer is this:

"The merchant will find, on looking over his records for years that the years of his prosperity have been the years of railroad progress, and the years when his prosperity waned have been the years when the railroads were not progressing.

"I have studied the subject carefully and I have no question that such additional railroad charges as would increase the prosperity of the railroads and would make them free buyers of material would start the general wheels in motion, and at the very least it would mean an increase of 5 per cent. in the business of our typical merchant. It might easily mean 10 per cent. or 15 per cent., but I have no doubt that 5 per cent. is a minimum of the result to that merchant in increase in sales.

"That would mean an increase of $50,000 in business at very slight expense, and on this he would make at least $6,000 before paying the extra railroad charges."

The difference between $6,000 extra profit and $1,250 extra freightage would, of course, be $4,750.

And the nearer the merchant were to the East the greater would be his percentage of profit, owing to the shorter haul.

The Saving of $10.02 on This Set Would Pay for The Daily Boston AMERICAN Three Years.

EVERYBODY'S CYCLOPEDIA contains all the world's useful information—thousands upon thousands of subjects which cover the entire globe and its people. Think of the many advantages in having all this information in such convenient form that it can be referred to "in a minute," without the necessity of searching through numerous large, unhandy volumes to get it! The convenience of this edition makes it far more desirable than any similar work published. It saves time in reference and it saves room in the library.

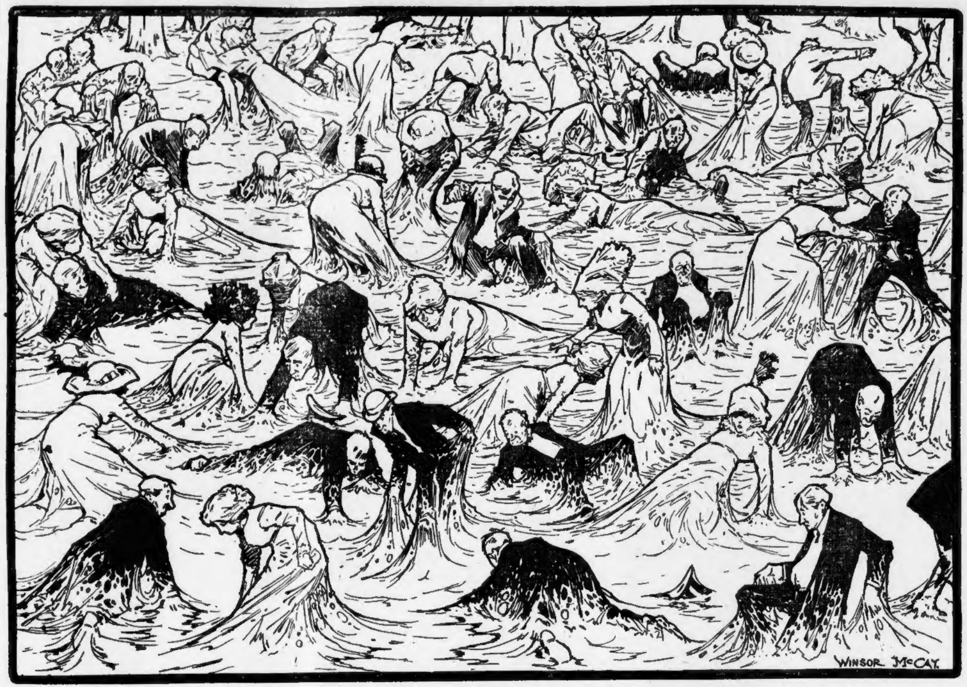
The Flypaper of Debt



Are you stuck on this flypaper? Are your hands and feet glued with debts that hold you down? Fight. You will find no happiness while debt holds you prisoner. (SEE EDITORIAL.)

If You Are in Debt, You Are a Fly Glued to the Flypaper

The More You Struggle, the Tighter You Stick. Soon Your Courage Is Gone and You Are a Dead Fly.

Copyright, 1913, by Star Company.

The picture at the top of this page is a picture for more than half of all the people in this country.

More than half the people are in debt—that is to say, they are living beyond their means, or they are spending every cent.

And the man who is spending every cent he gets is actually in debt and running in debt, for he is running in debt TO HIS OLD AGE, when he won't be able to make, and won't be able to spend, and when the spending of today means debt later.

Those that are in debt know what debt is. There is no need to tell them about it.

First you owe $50 if you are a little man, or $50,000 if you are a big man.

And then you owe $100—or $100,000 if you are big.

For awhile you struggle and plan. You are going to pay it off soon. It is a good thing to use "O P M," that is to say, other people's money in the effort to get ahead.

You tell yourself that all the big men have used their credit and borrowed and gone ahead rapidly.

It all sounds very nice and plausible.

But remember that YOU KEEP GETTING IN DEEPER.

The fly lights on the flypaper, perhaps with only one leg at first. He says this is nothing, and puts down the other leg to push himself off.

AND THEN HE IS STUCK FAST.

And then he says to himself: "I will fly away from this flypaper," so he begins flapping his wings. And both of his wings stick to the paper.

There he is with his feet stuck and his wings stuck and only his head free.

That fly feels about as independent and hearty as you do if you are in debt. And he says: "I can get off of this paper easily enough when I get ready. I'll just put my head down and push myself off."

He buzzes for awhile. THEN HE PUTS HIS HEAD DOWN ON THE FLY PAPER, TO PUSH HIMSELF OFF.

Then his head sticks tight; he begins to choke.

By and by he rolls over on his side, he sinks into the sticky surface—AND THERE IS ANOTHER DEAD FLY.

So it is with men in debt. So it will be with you if you stay in debt.

The only hope for the fly, the moment he feels one foot on the flypaper, is to use those wings and fly away, not putting in the other foot, flying off as quickly as he can.

And a million times wiser and better is the occasional rare fly, who sees the other flies sticking to the flypaper and says: "I don't like the look of those flies, I'll stay away from them."

Look at the people in debt. See their worry. See the anxiety of the mother, reflected in the children.

See the lack of standing, the extravagance and the poverty mixed together.

You can't mistake the human fly stuck on the flypaper of debt.

Since you cannot mistake him, why not keep away from that flypaper?

Debt makes everything worthless.

If you owe a thousand dollars, it seems rather foolish to save ten or twenty.

You feel that you might as well spend it, it won't make any difference.

And so it goes, if you owe two thousand. And then it isn't worth while to save twenty or forty.

And you become a failure. You put down your feet, and then your wings, AND THEN YOUR HEAD, WHICH IS AMBITION, and by and by you roll over and you are a dead fly.

Keep out of debt.

A NAUGHTY LITTLE COMET

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1913, by American-Journal-Examiner.

THERE was once a little comet who lived near the Milky Way!
She loved to wander out at night and jump about and play.
The mother of the comet was a very good old star—
She used to scold her reckless child for venturing out too far;
She told her of the ogre, Sun, who loved on stars to sup,
And who asked no better pastimes than gobbling comets up.

But instead of growing cautious and of showing proper fear,
The foolish little comet edged up nearer and more near.
She switched her saucy tail along right where the Sun could see,
And flirted with old Mars just as bold as bold could be.
She laughed to scorn the quiet stars, who never frisked about;
She said there was no fun in life unless you ventured out.

She liked to make the planets, and wished no better mirth
Than just to see the telescopes aimed at her from the earth.
She wondered how so many stars could mope through nights and days,
And let the sickly-faced old moon get all the love and praise.
And as she talked and tossed her head and switched her shining tail,
The staid old mother star grew sad, her cheek grew wan and pale.

For she had lived there in the skies a million years or more,
And she had heard gay comets talk in just this way before.
And by and by there came an end to this gay comet's fun—
She went a tiny bit too far—and vanished in the Sun!
No more she swings her shining trail before the whole world's sight,
But quiet stars she laughed to scorn are twinkling every night.

How Oriental Races Spread if Unhindered

By PERCY F. MONTGOMERY
Author of "Is Japan a World Power?" For many years agent for U. S. Government in Far East.

Copyright, 1913, by International News Service

HOW long would it take for the Japanese or the Chinese or the two to swarm over the Pacific slope if they were not repressed? We do not know, but there are undeniable facts that will help us to judge.

Chinese and Japanese have moved toward this continent systematically for about half a century. What has this movement accomplished? Let us see just the general facts without the intricate details. Hawaii, first in the pathway of this movement, shall be our first example and the State of California, the ultimate terminus of the movement to date, the second example.

The Japanese came to Hawaii to work as agriculturists. The United States government published several years since, in Document No. 6, Bulletin of the Bureau of Labor, the following facts with regard to Hawaii:

In the year 1904, out of a total of 1,629 persons of all nationalities holding licenses for twenty-seven kinds of occupations, from banking to fish drying, 1,241 were Japanese, and 81.08 per cent. of the school children in our American island territory were Japanese.

Hawaii 75 Per Cent. Oriental

The Board of Education reported that white children, Occidentals, came home from school with their dialect materially affected because of the preponderance of Orientals attending the schools. Thirteen years ago, in 1900, there were engaged in "gainful occupations," males, 63,563 Japanese and Chinese against 20,384 whites, or 75.63 per cent. This number has materially increased, as far as the Orientals have been concerned.

The number of Japanese citizens in Hawaii makes it possible for that nation to raise its flag tomorrow over the territory involved and bring its frontier within five days from the Pacific Slope without the firing of a gun, the raising of a voice or the shuffling of a single pair of feet.

The acquisition of the territory is absolute and complete in every way—economically, sociologically and commercially. It has been accomplished by the ceaseless inpour of Orientals of both sexes, by the acquirement of land, by the extension of local business and by the sheer dynamic force of number.

Politically, Hawaii is American territory. In point of fact, it is known to those cognizant of military conditions, and the government at Washington best of all, to be strategically Japanese now, as it has been for many years.

Jap Labor in California

California has raised the question of land tenure by these same people who have peacefully and silently acquired Hawaii. Last year the approximate crop value for fruit from California was $28,000,000. More than 50 per cent. of this was grown, picked, packed and shipped by Japanese labor only.

The density of population in Japan is about 340 to the square mile. In California it is about fourteen to fifteen per square mile.

Capital, in search of cheap labor, brought in Japanese agriculturists as it did in Hawaii. The last report of the Commissioner of Labor for the State of California, referring to this "mobile force" of Oriental agriculturists, called attention to the fact that the "laborer was buying the land and remaining on it." Capital's argument that the force was to be "mobile" is answered by these facts, from the Commissioner of Labor's report.

Field notes, taking in 4,102 farms, practically every farm of value in the State of California, showed 1,733 operated by Japanese without any assistance from white, men, 862 Japanese and whites on shares, and 1,407 operated solely by white labor. Japanese owned 199 farms of a total acreage of 10,791, and leased 110 farms, of a total acreage of 115,000.

Can Live on Thirty Cents

Incidental to this farm property is an urban property. Japanese own 110 pieces of urban property valued at $4,000,000, and invested in industrials of their own $16,114,407. Of this trade 36.80 per cent. was with the white man on his own ground. The total number of Oriental firms in business is given at 2,548, but 3.30 per cent. of which have been in business ten years. Of the total number of firms now in business 67.70 per cent. have opened shop in the past seven years, or since 1906.

The Japanese does not assimilate with the white resident, but lives a communistic life where the cost of living is reduced to a minimum and competition is eliminated. The report shows that on a minimum basis of $1.25 per diem, 20 cents to 30 cents was spent for living. On a minimum basis of $2.50 the sum 60 cents is given as a fair average of the amount spent to live.

Supplemental to the California report the Japanese population of Oregon is given as 3,600 and of Washington as 15,900. This population, considered in the light of the density of population of the States cited, is impressive.

Wearying statistics could be given without end. After all, they are but the more or less inaccurate records of human happenings.

Scientists know full well that the white man and the Oriental will no more assimilate in California than has the white man and the Oriental in China or in India. Ethic reasons, automatic in their operation, forbid and make assimilation impossible.

If these people will not assimilate and the Oriental is poured in upon the land, the white man will leave the land as the air does when water is poured into a bottle. Laws, treaties, ethics, conferences, each a great and estimable institution in its place, do not bear upon such world movements as these.

The Hypocrites

By M. E. M.

THEY go on Sundays to the church
And sit way up in front;
They bow their heads in solemn prayer,
Give now and then a grunt.

They listen to the preacher's voice,
And nod in full assent
As he exhorts all sinners for
To live well and repent.

They listen and they nod their heads,
Their minds are working, keen;
"Now, whom do you suppose he meant?
'Twas Mrs. Blank, I ween."

'Tis queer they never take to heart
The lessons pulpits preach,
But always can pick out the one
The preacher seeks to reach.

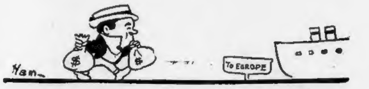
A GOLDEN SONG

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

Caruso refused to go into a poker game on a transatlantic steamer, despite all efforts to get him to join a merry party.—NEWS ITEM.

I MAKA da mon' lika da horse he can run,
In da land of da Star Spangled Ban;
Da song what I sing bigga salary bring
An' maka me one richa man.
Ease' he come, ease' he go; so da money I blow;
Pouf! Pouf! I just throw him around loose;
I liva mucha swell in da granda hotel,
But playa da poke'? Not Carus'!

UNDER Italy's sky one bigga castle I buy,
I eata da finest spaghett';
Vera grand do I lean in my big limousine,
Da king is no grander, you bet.
Whatever I got cost da bigga whole lot,
An' yet I not never go broke
As long as I say to myself every day:
"I never must playa da poke'"!



I GOTTA one frand in America land
He maka two, t'ree million dol';
But he start in to gamb'—lika da little small lamb—
An' da money fade—tra la la lol'!
An' he tell me, "Carus,' always say what's da use?
Or cracka da pleasant a joke;
For American man would skin Victor Emman'
If he got him to playa da poke'"!

SO I spenda whole lot, but I always have got
A little small wad laid away;
For it may be da note dat come of my throat
Get stuck and no singa some day.
No tighta wad me; mucha coin I spend free,
But much in da banka I soak;
For I know that I must some sad day go plumb bust,
If ever I playa da poke'.
